Cotton-Peanut Vote in Senate Won by South

Increased Acreage Bill Passed, 38-31, After Overnight Search for Backers

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Southern cotton and peanut growers yesterday finally succeeded in putting across their bill to increase this year's acreage of both these price-supported crops after it had been in jeopardy overnight.

The 150-million-dollar bill, which will add about 1,200,000 acres of cotton and 100,000 acres of peanuts to aid so-called "hardship" cases was passed by a comfortable 31 to 38. The victory was a tribute to the energy and influence of the Democratic leadership. Supporters of the measure not only held all the votes they mustered Thursday but added four. At the same time, the opponents lost six.

The decisive vote was on a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill had originally passed. The procedure that brought about an unusual parliamentary tangle Thursday was as follows: first, Russell (D., Ga.) moved to reconsider the original vote. Next Johnston (D., S. C.) moved to lay Russell's motion to reconsider on the table. This is the usual pattern to nail down a favorable vote. Republican farm leader Aiken (R., Vt.), however, made the unusual request of a yes and no vote on the motion to table. It lost 35 to 37. Supporters of the bill then tossed in a motion to recess until yesterday.

Both Sides Line Up Votes

Both sides were busy throughout Thursday night lining up Senators, several absent from the city. Three pairs were worked out, and four supporters of the bill rushed back. They were Murray (D., Mont.), Myers (D., Pa.), Neely (D., W. Va.) and Thomas (D., Okla.).

Five Republicans who had voted to defeat the cotton-peanut increase Thursday, failed to answer yesterday's roll call and made adoption of the law certain. They were Brewster (Me.), Bricker (Ohio), Butler (Nebr.), Ecton (Mont.), Langer (N., Dak.) and McCarthy (Wisc.).

Added to them was Senator Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.), who Thursday refused to vote on the bill but voted against the motion to table reconsideration. Yesterday Tydings was paired against reconsideration, with Senator Burnet R. Maybank (D., S. C.).

Tydings told The Washington Post that he couldn't vote either way on the measure, although apparently his objections didn't influence voting to reconsider it.

"If I voted for the bill, I voted for more cotton and peanuts," the Marylander said. "If I voted against it, I voted for continuation of the present potato program. I am against either proposition. The

Policemen May Poll City On Fast Time

The referendum on daylight-saving time for the District may be conducted by policemen as a door-to-door poll rather than at certain voting places.

Commissioner John Russell Young said yesterday he is considering having beat policemen carry the ballots to homes to avoid the possibility of ballot-stuffing at unsupervised polling places.

Charles Stofberg, Young's special assistant, anounced Thursday that it was planned to distribute ballots at fire and police stations where interested persons could vote.

Young said no final decision on voting procedure would be made until he had discussed it with Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young.

Joseph H. MacQuilliam, chief of the District's Division of Printing and Publication, printed a proposed ballot for the Commissioners' consideration and said he could print the 100,000 requested in two days.

Daylight-saving time, which means setting clocks forward one hour, goes into effect across the country April 30. Both houses of Congress are considering separate bills authorizing the Commissioners to proclaim daylight-saving time here.

Mistrial on Streptomycin Charge

Man Convicted of Drug Theft; Jury Disagrees on 2d Count

By Jean Reiff
Post Reporter

James W. Kinard, 35-year-old Gallinger Hospital pharmacist's aide, yesterday was found guilty by a District Court jury of the theft of three vials of chloromycetin from the hospital.

The jury was unable to agree about his guilt or innocence in the theft of 500 vials of streptomycin from the hospital and the jurors were finally dismissed by Judge T. Alan Goldsborough, who declared a mistrial on that charge.

Kinard faces a maximum sentence of five years in jail or a $5000 fine or both on the charge on which he was convicted. No date was set for sentencing.

The jury first received the case Thursday at 4:35 p. m., and deliberated on both charges for 90 minutes before recessing for dinner. The jurors returned at 7:10 p. m. to request further information and were finally sent home at 9 p. m., when they had failed to reach a verdict.

They resumed deliberations yesterday at 10 a. m. and were excused for lunch at 12:30 p. m., after they told Judge Goldsborough they had reached a decision on one charge and were making some headway on the other.

Deliberations were resumed again at 1:15 p. m., but at 2:30 p. m., the jury returned to the court room to inform the judge they were hopelessly deadlocked on the streptomycin charge. At that time they gave their verdict of conviction on the other count.

Kinard, who lives at 1664 Rosedale st. ne., was accused of selling streptomycin for $175 to Dr. Alvin G. Thornton, a private physician at 4832 Deane ave. ne., which he denied. He declared he was taking the chloromycetin, found on him by police, to the pharmacy and that he was going to bring back a requisition later.

As a result of testimony at his trial on the procedure of handling supplies at the hospital, investigations have been launched by the District government.

Peace Hope In Chrysler Strike Rises

Detroit, March 24 (AP).—Chrysler Corp. offered its 89,000 striking workers a 30 million dollar pension plan and other major benefits today. But union leaders turned down the offer, saying it was only half good enough. They came up with a counter-proposal.

A little later, mediators called a halt in the fast-moving peace talks until Sunday. They said they wanted to give each side time to think over the other's latest moves.

The day's developments boosted hopes for a quick settlement of the 59-day-old strike to a new high.

Here's what happened:

Chrysler offered to back its guarantee of $100-a-month pensions, including Federal Social Security, with 30 million dollars set aside immediately as a trust fund. It also offered to liberalize eligibility requirements for retiring workers and raised its hospital-medical-insurance benefits.

More in Fund Demanded

The CIO United Auto Workers Union said it would go along with the lump sum funding arrangement for pensions. But it said another $16,020,000 would have to be put into the fund during the proposed five-year agreement to make the plan sound. It also insisted on far higher hospital-medical-insurance benefits and improvements in noneconomic sections of the old Chrysler-UAW contract.

The UAW said the latest Chrysler offer—the second since the strike began—was worth the equivalent of 5 cents an hour. The union claims it won at least a 10-cent hourly "package" from several of Chrysler's competitors.

Despite this economic difference, the union said the company's offer was "a step in the right direction."

Chrysler said the 30 million dollars would be set aside immediately and could be used only to pay $100-a-month pensions, including Federal Social Security benefits, to workers at age 65 after 25 years' service.

Contract for Five Years

On that basis, the company said, the fund would be more than sufficient to take care of all eligible employes for life. One Chrysler source said more than half of the fund might be left at the end of five years, the proposed duration of a new contract.

The company reserved the right to withdraw money from the trust fund if Social Security payments are boosted by law. It said it would do this in proportion to the boost in Government benefits.

The offer went far beyond any previous company proposal.

Three days ago the company agreed to the principle of funding but wanted to pay into the fund only enough to meet individual pensions as they become due.

Child Actress' 'Starving' Charge Rejected by Jury

Hollywood, March 24 (U.P.). — A Justice Court jury tonight held that Mrs. Lorraine Michel, 55, was innocent of charges she unjustifiably punished child actress Lora Lee Michel, 9, by starving and beating her.

When the verdict was announced seven hours and 40 minutes after the four-man, eight-woman jury was given the case, about 30 friends of Mrs. Michel in the courtroom broke into wild applause and cheers.

"Thank God, thank God," Mrs. Michel, foster mother of the little screen acrtess, sobbed.

Huge Defense Building Plan Wins Approval

The House Armed Services Committee yesterday approved a $689,058,181 program to strengthen key defense points overseas and at home and expand military research activity.

Included in the recently enlarged plan are construction projects totaling $61,098,000 in the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) said he will press for early House action on the public works authorization bill. The Senate already has approved the bulk of the projects—proposed by the Department of Defense last year.

The House knocked out some of the Senate-added items and added $187,142,771 of "emergency" projects from the department's 1950 program. No actual appropriations are provided in the measure. They would have to be voted later in a supplemental measure or in next year's budget.

Among the major projects:

Twenty-two million dollars for a new secret Army "special weapons project" in Utah, near Dugway Chemical Depot. It is reported that it will serve as a proving ground for new chemical weapons.

About 100 million dollars for Army and Air Force construction in Alaska, which top officials have said is inadequately defended. Included are funds for Eielson Air Force Base, including high-speed fueling apparatus for putting gasoline into B-36s in a hurry. Other such equipment would be installed at other Air Force bases.

Tightening Army and Air Force defenses around the Northwest atomic plants.

Construction of Army installations to protect the vital Great Lakes locks.

Three Air Force "listening posts," reported to be located in the Arctic.

Housing for 7651 service families to cost 130 million dollars.

Overseas construction includes: $4,500,000 at the USAF air transport base, Dhahran, Saudi Arabia;

Senators Call Eisenhower On Defenses

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Congress yesterday called upon Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to elaborate on and explain his Thursday night comment that he is "deeply concerned" over the extent of American disarmament.

As individual members expressed either disturbance or surprise at his remarks, the Senate Military Appropriations subcommittee asked the general to come before them and give his views on the adequacy of our defenses.

Reactions to Ike's cryptic remark were along two general lines. Some Senators and Representatives said they agreed our military strength was too low and urged additional defense spending. Others pointed out that the general had had much to do with the preparation of the 1951 arms budget and said he had backed it only a few weeks ago.

Those who pointed out that Eisenhower participated in the budget wondered if the general's remarks had been "misinterpreted"—whether he was talking about the current budget at all—or whether something has happened to make him change his mind recently.

At any rate, the incident is expected to cause Congress to take a new and more careful look at the Nation's cut-back military spending.

Johnson Satisfied

Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson has been under attack by some columnists and Congressmen for reducing the defense forces beyond what they called safe limits. Johnson has denied this, saying he was eliminating "fat not muscle," and that our defenses are "sufficient unto the hour."

The Defense Secretary also has defended his reductions by saying that "this is Eisenhower's budget." Ike, now president of Columbia University, spent three months at the Pentagon last year helping prepare the 13-billion-dollar military budget.

Neither Johnson nor Eisenhower would comment yesterday on the general's latest statement. Speaking in New York Thursday night—with a prepared text—Ike said:

"America has already disarmed to the extent—in some directions even beyond the extent—that I, with deep concern for her safety, could possibly advise."

More Power Sought

Meanwhile, other top Defense officials—without opposing the Administration's 13-billion-dollar budget—declared that "from the military viewpoint" only, additional strength is needed.

At a press conference in London, Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, chief of naval operations, said:

"I read General Eisenhower's statement in the papers with great interest. I believe most of us with military responsibility as well as those who have wider responsibilities are constantly attempting to resolve the colliding objectives of having enough military strength and a reasonable national economy.

"From the military viewpoint, I certainly think it more desirable if we had more military strength than we have now. But that is just from the military point of view."

From House Committee Files

List of 'Hill' Contributors To Slav Congress Disappears

By The Associated Press

A list of Congress members who have contributed to the American Slav Congress, or corresponded with it, has disappeared mysteriously from the office of the House Un-American Activities Committee.

The case of the missing list came to light yesterday while the committee was questioning Matthew Cvetic of Pittsburgh. Cvetic is the former FBI undercover agent who for several weeks has been testifying about Communist activities in the Pittsburgh area, including their penetration of the Slav Congress, an organization branded as subversive in 1948 by the Attorney General.

Cvetic said he had turned various files and papers over to the committee when he began his testimony and had since asked for their return.

"One file is missing," Cvetic said. "It was a file—a document of the American Slav Congress, 'Letters, Correspondence and Contributions of Congressmen, Senators and Other Political Leaders.'"

Chairman Wood (D., Ga.) told reporters he thought the file had been misplaced, not stolen.

"There is no reason for anyone to filch it," he said. "All the contributions and correspondence, I believe, preceded the listing of the American Slav Congress as subversive."

Representative Valde (R., Ill.) asked whether any of the politicians' letters were dated after the listing of the American Slav Congress as subversive. Cvetic said some were.

"When did the Communists take over the American Slav Congress?" asked Representative Walter (D., Pa.).

"In 1944," Cvetic replied.

"It was not Communist-dominated before that?"

Cvetic said no, and it took the people a year or two after that to realize the Communists had moved in.

Representative Kearney (R., N. J.) wanted to know whether any other documents were missing.

Not to his knowledge, Cvetic replied.

Police Supply Information

Sen. Hill's Unit Waging Drive On Perverts in Key U. S. Jobs

Information supplied by Washington police to a Senate subcommittee may be used in a move to force a housecleaning of sex perverts from key Government jobs on the ground they are among the worst security risks.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Lister C. Hill (D., Ala.) is reported to be going into the question of alleged perverts on Government payrolls in the belief they are especially susceptible to blackmailing by Communist agents or other subversive persons, and thus would be easy targets for spies trying to get official secrets.

That a housecleaning of sex perverts from Government jobs in Washington is the major aim of the Hill subcommittee was disclosed last night while members maintained an ironclad secrecy over details of the investigation.

Hill launched the supersecret inquiry Thursday. He did it at the request of Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.) Republican floor leader in the Senate and a member of the Hill subcommittee.

Hill's subcommittee is set up to review the District budget, and pass on the annual District appropriation bill, including police funds. All its hearings were open until Thursday when two key Metropolitan Police investigators were called into an unannounced locked-door session in response to subpenas to testify to the com-

RCA Announces Single Color Tube For TV Receivers

The Radio Corporation of America announced yesterday that it has developed a single full-color picture tube for color television receiving sets.

The tube, if it meets with Federal Communications Commission approval, may speed up authorization of commercial color TV.

The problem of developing such a tube has been one of the main obstacles to commercial color TV.

The Columbia Broadcasting System has said it would use such a tube in its set to replace the mechanical color wheel.

Point 4 Plan Seen in Close House Battle

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

The Point Four program for backward areas faced serious trouble in the House yesterday after the first day's debate on foreign aid had petered out for lack of a quorum.

One Democratic leader conceded, after a careful check, that there would be a "very close" vote on this section of a single-package foreign aid bill. He predicted, though, that Point Four would still be in the bill after the final vote, which is not now expected until Tuesday.

The Point Four section, a keystone of Administration foreign policy in Asia and other undeveloped areas, authorizes 45 million dollars for sending American technical experts abroad and bringing foreigners here for technical training. It got its name as the fourth major point of President Truman's inaugural address last year.

Even if Point Four survives the attempt to kill it, it may be mangled in the process. One of its professed supporters, Representative Christian A. Herter (R., Mass.) told the House yesterday that the 45-million-dollar amount was "very excessive until the shape of the program is much better defined."

"This program ought to begin on a much more modest basis than is outlined in this bill," said Herter, a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee. State Department

Harold Laski, Former Head Of Labor Party, Dies at 56

London, March 24 (AP).—Prof. Harold J. Laski, 56, noted political scientist and former chairman of the Labor Party, died of pneumonia tonight.

He was stricken with bronchitis in January, but was able to resume his lectures at the London School of Economics, with which he had been connected for many years.

However, his students noted he had not recovered entirely, and two weeks ago an attack of what was diagnosed as influenza forced him to remain home.

Because of his advocacy of socialism—as a professor, a member of the Labor Party and a writer—Laski was frequently under fire from conservatives in both Britain and the United States.

He was Labor Party chairman in 1945-46, when the party won control by a big majority. He had been a member of Labor's Executive Committee since 1936.

He was widely known in the United States, where he often lectured. He taught at Harvard, Yale and Amherst in the United States and McGill University, Montreal.

When the Labor Party won in 1945, he wrote:

"We are now prepared to give the little man—within the framework of the British constitution—all the progressive chance he requires."

While Laski wrote much on socialism and was one of the mainsprings of the Labor Party, he never held a government post.

Happy Day With Hoover

G-Boys Who Trapped Nation's No. 3 Enemy Guests of G-Men

Two daring boy detectives who helped nab an escaped murderer flew here aboard an airliner yesterday and "took over" FBI headquarters without once having to draw their atomic ray guns.

James Lewis, 14, and James Radeck, 13—the quick-witted St. Paul, Minn., youngsters who literally "smoked out" the Nation's "Public Enemy No. 3"—were the toast of the G-men from J. Edgar Hoover himself on down.

They were whisked from their plane to the massive stone building on Pennsylvania ave. where FBI activities center, and promptly ushered before Hoover.

Welcoming them as kindred spirits, Hoover praised the lads for a "magnificent job" in trapping James Raymond Nesbit in a cave on the banks of the Mississippi in Tom Sawyer fashion.

He said they would certainly be "fine citizens" when they grew up, and urged adults to follow the lead of the youngsters in helping run down other criminals still on the "wanted" list.

To cap it all, the beaming head G-man offered the younger Jimmy—Jimmy Radeck—a chance to try out a real FBI machine gun.

"It kicks like a mule," Hoover chuckled. "See if you can hold it."

Young Radeck, who wants to be a G-man when he's old enough, said modestly he thought he could handle it.

The two Jimmies carried only an "atomic ray gun," Boy Scout knives and sling shots when they led their "posse" of five other boys in trapping Nesbit in a cave where he had been hiding after escaping from the South Dakota State Prison.

Jimmy Lewis, the "brains" of the operation, spotted a picture of Nesbit in a newspaper his mother spread on her kitchen floor. He recognized the man as the "Hermit" the boys had seen living in the cave.

Bearing their "comic book" weapons, they took members of their gang to the cave next day and smoked the escaped convict out by jamming snow down his improvised stovepipe.

Senate Gets 'Analysis' on Man Named By McCarthy

Some Information Held Derogatory; Special Report May Be Prepared

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

The FBI files on the man Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) has accused of being the "top Soviet espionage agent" in this country in no way support that charge, The Washington Post learned early today.

The "complete analysis" of those files was given yesterday at the Justice Department to the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee investigating McCarthy's charges of Communist infiltration.

The Justice Department said only that the information shown to the investigating group of Senators was restricted to "one principal case in which the committee was interested." But it is known that they were the files on the alleged "top spy," who McCarthy has said is connected with the State Department.

Some Derogatory Information

Those files, The Washington Post learned, do contain some derogatory information on the individual. But it is not the sort of information that would come close to supporting the sweeping charge McCarthy made.

Four of the five Senators on the subcommittee looked at the data in the private office of Attorney General McGrath. Also present was FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

The Senators present were: Committee Chairman Tydings (D., Md.), McMahon (D., Conn.), Green (D., R. I.) and Lodge (R., Mass.). The other member, Republican Senator Hickenlooper (Iowa) was out of town.

The analysis of the files by Hoover, was such, it was believed, that even Lodge will be content to join with the Democratic majority in rejecting the validity of McCarthy's claim.

The subcommittee probably will do this in a special report. Having seen the FBI analysis, and having been given the State Department's employment record on the man—he worked for the Department only once, on a four-month overseas mission five years ago—there is nothing else for the committee to investigate, except to hear the man himself.

Accused, Probably a Witness

This probably will be done, but it is not known whether it will be in open or in executive session.

McCarthy named the man to the committee in closed session. He had previously given the committee his name, he said, when he charged him with much lesser offenses than being the principal Red spy agent in this country.

His name is known, on an off-

Government Girl Slain on Lonely Va. Mountainside

Blacksburg, Va., March 24 (AP).—Alice Marie Taylor, 23, blonde employe of the Veterans Administration at Roanoke, was found dead here today off a highway on Brush Mountain. She appeared to have been beaten to death.

Her body, fully clothed except for her shoes, lay in a shallow fill where Bernice Dowdy noticed it on her way to work. A physician said she died of a brain hemorrhage after checking bruises on her face and forehead.

From investigating officers came word that the girl may have been slugged elsewhere and her body dumped beside the road four miles from this college town (Virginia Tech).

Deputy Sheriff F. H. Charlton said markings on the soft earth seemed to indicate that two persons carried a woman from a car on the highway and dropped her.

Voorhees Resigns Key Defense Post

Nimitz Hits U. S. H-Bomb 'Hysteria'

Los Angeles, March 24 (U.P.).—Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz said today "growing hysteria and worry-mongering" is endangering the country's national health and vitality.

"We are even worrying over a weapon we have not yet proved we can produce—the hydrogen bomb," Nimitz said in a Charter Day address at the University of California at Los Angeles.

ECA Administrator Paul G. Hoffman was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree at the ceremonies. University of California President Robert Gordon Sproul praised Hoffman for his services in "the bitter struggle between democracy and communism" as "evangelist of capitalism and free enterprise as bulwarks of human liberty."

Nimitz, wartime naval leader, said he believed the decision to make the hydrogen bomb was correct, but he added:

"With Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, I view with concern the growing hysteria and worry-mongering which endangers our national health and vitality. A great many of our worries are imaginary and never materialize—like the little man who wasn't there."

Nimitz said United States possession of the H-bomb would reduce any threat of it ever being used in conflict.

America's position of leadership in international affairs, he said, "cannot be exercised successfully in an atmosphere of fear and hysteria."

Key West, Fla., March 24 (AP).—President Truman's personnel problems mounted today with the resignation of another key defense strategist.

He accepted the resignation of Tracy S. Voorhees as Undersecretary of the Army, effective no later than June 30.

Voorhees' superior, Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray, is stepping out in the summer to become president of the University of North Carolina in September.

And the President is still looking for a chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission as well as a chairman of the National Security Resources Board, and a man to fill the vacancy on the Economic Advisory Council.

White House aides disclosed, meanwhile, that the President expects to remain at the "winter White House" until April 10, unless unexpected developments should call him back to Washington. He left there March 12. This would make this the longest of his Florida vacations at the Naval Submarine Station.

(Undersecretary of Defense Stephen T. Early also plans to leave the department in the late spring or early summer, the United Press reported.)

Voorhees wrote the President he made his decision to leave the Army Department in June early in the new year before Gray's decision to take the university job. He said he would be glad to stay on until Gray leaves, however.

He said he wanted the President and Secretary of Defense Johnson to have time to develop a "new team" for the Army.

In a letter to Gray shortly after New Year's, made public here, Voorhees said he will be 60 in June and have completed eight years' service in the Army "in and out of uniform." He said his family and friends have been pressuring him to leave and that his doctors have asked him to slow up.

He promised to make himself available for special jobs from time to time.

The President replied with a warm letter of commendation and accepted with reluctance. He commended especially the former Brooklyn lawyer's work as Food Administrator for the Occupied Areas and the improvement of the Japanese relief situation under his direction as Undersecretary.

Dr. Bowman, pastor at the Washington church since 1937, will be given a luncheon at 1 p. m., and a reception in Blue Ridge Hall.

Carrier and 4 Destroyers Are Added to Pacific Fleet

Another aircraft carrier and four more destroyers yesterday were ordered added to the Pacific Fleet in a further move to bolster American naval strength in that ocean.

The action means that the number of flattops assigned to the Pacific will be doubled by next summer. Two other carriers, the Philippine Sea and Sicily, already have been announced as slated to join the three now there.

The sixth flattop ordered to the Pacific is the USS Bataan, a small (11,000-ton) vessel now being converted for antisubmarine work, at the Philadelphia Navy Shipyard.

Major purpose of the assignment of the Bataan is to step up antisubmarine training in the Pacific Fleet. New techniques have been developed by forces operating out of the Key West, Fla. naval base and it is desired to school Pacific vessels in such new procedures and carry on parallel antisub development work in the Pacific.

Navy chiefs have said that means of combatting the new snorkel type submarines is the No. 1 problem faced by the Fleet. It is reported that subs scored torpedo "hits" against eight vessels, including the battleship Missouri, during the recent Caribbean maneuvers.

Russia has the world's largest underseas fleet, including a number of the new snorkels. Eighty to 90 Soviet subs are believed to be in the Pacific.

Addition of the Bataan will make the Pacific Fleet consist of: three attack carriers, the 27,000-ton Boxer, Valley Force and Philippine Sea; three smaller flattops, the CVE Badoeng Strait, CVE Sicily, and CVL Bataan (which will form Carrier Division 15, based at San Diego); four heavy cruisers, the Helena, St. Paul, Toledo, and Rochester; the light cruiser Mancruiser Juneau; 54 destroyers and chester, and the antiaircraft about 27 submarines.

The destroyers being added to the Pacific Fleet are the G. K. Mackenzie, E. G. Small, Hanson, and H. J. Thomas. They are now in the active Atlantic Fleet.

American Public 'Impatient' for Settlement Of U. S.-Soviet Problems, Post Luncheon Told

By Lee Grove
Post Reporter

The American public is impatient to have the issues between Russia and the United States settled, a Washington Post Book and Author Luncheon audience was told yesterday.

The statement was made by James Burnham, member of New York University's faculty and author of "The Coming Defeat of Communism."

Also addressing the "sell-out" audience of 550 persons in the Hotel Statler were: Margaret Culkin Banning of Duluth, Minn., whose newest book, "Give Us Our Years," was released in Washington yesterday; Comdr. William Lederer, USN, of Washington, author of "All the Ship's at Sea," and Clarence A. Barnes, jr., of New York, compiler of "White Collar Zoo" and "Home Sweet Zoo."

"Disillusioned Marxist"

Burnham, who was introduced by Washington Post publisher Philip L. Graham as a "disillusioned Marxist" of the early 1930's, one who had long recognized "the menace of international communism today," said that his knowledge of the attitude of the American public was based on a cross-country motor tour of the United States in 1948.

Burnham, who was accompanied on the trip by his wife and three children, said "for the first month we thought people were indifferent, but as we went on we gradually learned how superficial this impression was.

"People had finished their talking and were decided. They understood the real issues," he said, and considered them "something to be settled, not debated."

"I am convinced that people are more than ready, they are impatient. They are tired of having their country pushed around," Burnham said, "They believe their country should seize the initiative."

Speak in Lighter Vein

Lederer, chief of the book and magazine section in the Defense Department's public relations division, and Barnes, an advertising agency art director, spoke in lighter vein.

Barnes, who disclosed he is working on a third picture book, "Campus Zoo," said that he had looked over 100,000 pictures of animals in preparing his first.

"I really had an ulterior motive in coming down here from New York today," Barnes said. "I wanted to get a little material for an 'administration zoo' but I find they are all in Luxembourg or Key West, or away somewhere, but maybe I will be back again."

Says Luck Is Important

Lederer, whose second book, "The Last Cruise," will be published May 15, said he had been asked by two ladies "in red hats"—"what is the one quality that a writer has to have to get things published?"

"I have been pondering it," he said, "and have come to the conclusion that it is luck."

As an example of luck, Lederer said that when a midshipman at Annapolis he was assigned to show a visiting editor around the Naval Academy. The editor asked him to write a piece on how to take a girl to "a hop," and then paid him $25 for it.

Mrs. Banning, author of 27 books in addition to considerable periodical writing, said there is a gap today between the generations—"between the people of 25 and 50, that separates them definitely."

"We cannot see things quite from the children's view," she said.

She summarized the great changes as: the change in ambition; the change in the status of women, and the increasing concern for social conditions.

Senators Call 'Ike' About Arms

Symington and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, USAF chief of staff, told the Senate Military Appropriations subcommittee about the same thing. They testified, according to Senators, that the 48-group Air Force is not sufficient judged only from the military view, but that they are supporting the President's budget.

Symington told newsmen that he and Vandenberg had urged the group to restore a 43 million dollar Air Force cut made by the House Appropriations Committee.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee, was one of those who felt our military strength has been cut too much. He considered that Eisenhower meant just what he said.

Representative W. Sterling Cole (R., N. Y.) agreed, saying he had "felt for some time that the national defense program is below par despite assurance to the contrary by our military leaders." Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) said that Eisenhower's statement gave him "deep concern."

But Chairman H. Mahon (D., Tex.) of the House Military Appropriations subcommittee, said he was puzzled by Ike's remarks. Declaring that the general "had more to do with the military budget than any other person," he added:

"He told us several weeks ago that he was for it and offered no suggestions for increasing it."

Thieves Collect $1500 From Transfer Co. Safe

Employes of the Standard Transfer Co., 4th and Bryant sts. ne., found their safe broken open and $1500 missing when they opened yesterday.

William B. Doster, manager, said the safe crackers gained entrance by breaking in a first floor window. Then apparently they used a crowbar to force open the safe.

Point Four Program Fund Seen in Danger

officials had worked closely with him and had modified their original draft of the bill to meet his wishes.

Herter warned the House, however, to "go very slow" before rejecting Point Four altogether. He insisted that some such program was essential to prevent the undeveloped nations from being overrun by communism.

Other sections of the $3,275,000,000 bill, including the third-year authorization for the Marshall Plan, faced determined efforts by Republicans and Southern Democrats to slash it. Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, jr., said he and his party colleagues were getting heavy mail demanding "that we cut expenses all along the line."

And Representative Thomas E. Martin (R., Iowa) said a poll of 25,000 constituents brought 4000 replies, of which an overwhelming number favored cutting Federal spending although a majority wanted the Marshall Plan continued.

A movement also gained strength among farm Representatives and others to kill the controversial section substituting a billion dollars' worth of surplus farm goods for a billion in cash in the Marshall Plan. Chairman Harold D. Cooley (D., N. C.) of the House Agriculture Committee said most of his fellow-members favored his own substitute amendment, which would require the Economic Cooperation Administration to buy at least a billion dollars' worth of surplus goods but would let it do so in the open market.

The foreign aid debate opened tamely yesterday after the House had voted 262 to 22 to let it come to the floor. Scores of eastern members drifted away for the weekend, and there were seldom as many as a hundred members on the floor during the afternoon speeches.

Chairman John Kee (D., W. Va.) of the Foreign Affairs Committee led off by saying the continuance of the Marshall Plan would determine whether Communism could be stopped. He denied that European competition threatened any American industry with "extinction," although Representative Frank B. Keefe (R., Wis.) warned that increased imports into this country would hurt American business.

Eaton Praises Marshall Plan

Representative Charles A. Eaton (R., N. J.), ranking Republican member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, said the Marshall Plan "has taken the nations of western Europe out of the abyss of despair and has set the feet of their people on the highway of hope."

"Above all," he declared, "it has erected a permanent wall against the curse of the world, the communistic philosophy of hate and fear and ruin."

Eaton brought applause from both sides of the House by appealing for "a magnificent majority so that our friends across the seas, and the Russians, will know America is still on guard and is not going to let the free world down."

The only opposition speech came from Representative Lawrence Smith (R., Wis.) who branded Point Four as "the most fantastic program ever submitted to Congress." Smith argued that the Marshall Plan had failed to meet its objectives, had increased the tendency to economic isolationism in Europe, and was costing more than the American people could afford to pay.

General debate on the foreign aid bill will resume on Monday, with the prospect that amendments will not reach the floor until Tuesday.

Sabers Bare, Police Rush Belgian Rioters

Brussels, March 24 (U.P.)—Mounted police swinging bared sabers charged rioters in the streets of Brussels tonight in a wild climax to a violent general strike by opponents of exiled Belgian King Leopold III.

The horsemen rode down on students who had staged a day-long series of battles with gendarmes, overturned streetcars and tried unsuccessfully to storm the stock exchange with shouts of "Down With Leopold."

The 400 students rushed into sidewalk cafes to escape the charge. Three of the 20 mounted police lost control of their horses and crashed through the big plate-glass windows of one of the cafes.

The disorder grew out of a 24-hour strike of 500,000 Socialist-led workers that is paralyzing half the nation as a demonstration demanding the abdication of the exiled King.

Fifty gendarmes, armed with rifles, tear-gas bombs and truncheons aided the mounted police, who were called out for riot duty for the first time since the bonus riots of January, 1947.

At least 38 persons were injured in the Brussels rioting and 30 students were arrested. No arrests or injuries were reported from strikebound southern Belgium.

In the four anti-Leopold Walloon provinces of industrial south Belgium, the Socialist-called strike closed down industries, shops, transportation, postoffices and schools.

As the crisis over Leopold's proposed return deepened, Prince Charles, the regent, was reported preparing to name a new premier-designate to try to form a government favorable to the King.

The former premier-designate, Catholic Count Henri Carton de Wiart, quit today and announced that a "national" solution to the royal problem is virtually impossible.

Many Staffs Cut

Attache Jobs At Budapest Terminated

By The Associated Press

The United States has ended the assignments of three military officers attached to the United States Legation in Hungary because the Hungarian Communists said they had to be removed. They probably will not be replaced.

At the same time the State Department notified Budapest that it flatly rejected charges that the three were involved in spying against Hungary. The charges were made in the recent Communist trial at Budapest of Robert A. Vogeler, American businessman, who was convicted of syping and sentenced to 15 years.

The American Government, contending that Vogeler was forced to make a phony confession and give false testimony, is still negotiating for his release, officials said today. There remains some hope at the State Department that this country's deportation of Valentin Gubitchev, convicted Soviet spy, back to his homeland provides an example which Communist Hungary will follow in the Vogeler case.

An opportunity for legal action to that end is still open, officials said, because Vogeler filed an appeal and it has not yet been acted on by the Hungarian appellate court.

The three military officers who were accused during the Vogeler trial of being spies for the United States against Hungary are Col. James B. Kraft, military attache; Lieut. Col. John T. Hoyne, assistant military attache, and Maj. Donald E. Griffin, assistant air attache.

Hoyne was out of Hungary—at Vienna, Austria—at the time the Hungarian government declared him "personna non grata" two weeks ago. He never returned. Yesterday military authorities said Griffin also had departed but there was no word here yet as to whether Kraft had left.

There was no doubt, however, that the assignments of all three men had ended. State Department officials said that in accord with normal practice they had no choice but to remove diplomats who are declared personally unacceptable.

U. S. Will Go Along

Officials would not say absolutely the men will not be replaced but there was no sign they will—or can—be. Hungary has demanded that the American Legation staff of both Americans and native Hungarians be slashed on the ground that it is a nest of spies.

The United States rejected the reason but indicated it probably would go along with the reduction.

In fact, it seems likely that Legation staffs all over eastern Europe will be allowed to decrease in size by a process of attrition. State Department officials said yesterday that despite some recent reports to the contrary they have no intention of firing the sizable native staffs. In Hungary, for instance, the United States employs more than 100 Hungarians.

What will happen, according to a recent State Department decision, is that when American officers are withdrawn they will not, in most cases, be replaced and when native employes quit or disappear—as sometimes happens—their positions will remain vacant.

85 Czechs Fly To U. S. Zone Of Germany

Frankfurt, Germany, March 24 (AP).—Three planes loaded with 85 Czechs fleeing their Communist-ruled homeland landed in American-occupied Germany today. It was the largest mass escape from behind the Iron Curtain, U. S. Army officers said.

An official announcement from the U. S. Air Force at Wiesbaden said:

"Three unauthorized, unscheduled Czech airplanes of the DC-3 type landed at Erding Air Base. The airplanes, landing at different intervals during the morning, carried approximately 85 refugee persons from Czechoslovakia.

"The refugees are being held for investigation by United States authorities. Results will be announced at the earliest possible hour."

The announcement did not identify the Czech passengers who landed at the field just northeast of Munich.

The flight to freedom coincided with widespread reports—denied by the Czechoslovakian government—that Deputy Czech Premier Zdenek Fierlinger had been assassinated by underground anti-Communist fighters.

The reports were first published by the London Evening News which also said Communist Party Secretary Rurolf Slansky was wounded in the attack. The British Foreign Office said it had no information about the incident.

In Ottawa, former Czech Minister to Canada Frantisec Nemec was quoted by the Ottawa Evening Citizen as saying he had "definite word" of Fierlinger's assassination and the wounding of Slansky.

Justice Minister Quits Party Post

Prague, March 24 (U.P.)—Alexej Cepicka, Communist Minister of Justice and Church Affairs, resigned tonight as secretary general of the action committee of the national front coalition.

Cepicka said he could not carry out his functions because he was "overburdened" with his work as Minister of Justice and head of the state office for church matters.

Berlin Red Says Million Set for Putsch

Berlin, March 24 (U.P.)—A Communist labor leader today said one million Red "fighters" will demonstrate in East and West Berlin on May Day, demanding unity of the city.

Karl Ebeling, a leader of the Free German Trade Union Federation, said May Day committees are determined to "form their processions" and "demonstrate in the streets" in the city's Western sectors May 1.

The Communists earlier were reported to have decided not to extend their scheduled May 27-30 youth rally to the Western sector of the city, but Ebeling's statement indicated they will do so on May 1.

Ebeling appealed to West Berlin's 300,000 unemployed to take part in the demonstration.

Western officials long have suspected the Communists might be planning violence in the Western sectors May Day, but Allied intelligence sources said today they have no reports of Communist plans for the demonstration.

Meanwhile, Holland, Denmark and Norway have temporarily halted food deliveries to the Soviet zone of Germany, threatening a food crisis there, the British-licensed newspaper Social Democrat said.

The action was reported taken because the zone has fallen behind in payments.

Army Radio Loses Power

Frankfurt, Germany, March 24 (AP).—The United States Army's radio is being drowned out by more powerful stations, but America's cold war broadcasts from Berlin are stronger than ever under a recent reassignment of European frequencies.

The impotence of the American Forces Network (AFN) and the added power of RIAS, America's German-language station in Berlin, were disclosed by officials today.

Wavelengths were reallocated by the recent Copenhagen radio conference, which gave Soviet Russia and some other countries several frequencies previously used in Western Germany.

Before the frequency changes, RIAS operated at night with lower power due to overlapping with Yugoslavia. Now it is on full power."

The United States High Commission in Germany rejected the decisions of the Copenhagen conference and ordered radio stations in the United States zone to broadcast on frequencies newly assigned to Russia and other countries.

Despite this, however, Dr. Rudolf Vogel, chairman of the West Parliamentary Radio Committee, said he considered that Russian propagandists had been given an opportunity to win the radio war. He said the Soviet-controlled transmitter at Leipzig was more powerful than ever.

House Unit Asks U. S. to Bypass Russia in Resettling Refugees

President Truman was urged by a congressional committee yesterday to bypass Russia and take the lead in finding new homes for one million refugees stranded in Germany by the war.

At the same time, it warned that 11 million other refugees of German origin must be absorbed into the German economy. It said the deplorable conditions in which they now exist make them ready targets for Communism.

The House Immigration Committee called on Mr. Truman to summon an international conference of nations which might provide a new homeland for the one million refugees.

The 12 million persons of German origin fled into Germany from Russian armies or were expelled from neighboring lands to the east. Chairman Francis D. Walters (D., Pa.) said Communists are conducting a whispering campaign among the refugees blaming the United States for their plight.

Marshall Plan Funds

The committee said money from the next Marshall Plan appropriation should be earmarked to pay the cost of a new international organization to carry out the resettlement program. This organization should be required to cooperate with the "Point Four" program for United States economic aid to underdeveloped countries, it said.

The temporary resettlement organization, the committee said, should be set up outside the United Nations to escape a Russian veto and participation by Soviet-controlled nations. Some of the refugees are wanted by the Communists for alleged crimes and presumably would be thrown into concentration camps if the Russians had their way.

The committee's recommendations were made in an 87-page report on Germany's problem of refugees. Walter introduced a bill to carry out the recommendations.

He said that Russia "probably is anxious for many of these people to return to Russia so they can be sent to Siberia for some real or imaginary damage they caused the Soviet."

8 to 10 in a Room

The investigation showed that many of the refugees are packed 8 to 10 in a single room in bombed-out areas already miserably overcrowded. Many are housed in German army barracks and air raid shelters.

The committee was highly critical of an attitude on the part of German officials that the surplus population must be dealt with internationally. It said the fate of the bulk of the 12 million basically is "a problem and responsibility of Germany."

It recognized, however, that the absorption of so many persons into Germany would have so strong an impact on the economy of that country and Europe that it might delay European recovery.

The committee decried talk "both in the United States and Europe" that the United States is responsible for the wholesale expulsion of the refugee populations from eastern Europe as the result of the Potsdam agreement.

It said this impression is a "historical error" and the bulk of the expulsions took place before the agreement was signed.

Bonn to Shift Ten Agencies To West Berlin in Unity Bid

Bonn, March 24 (NYHT).—Carrying its "German unity" offensive another step forward, the West German Republic today announced final plans for transfer of headquarters of 10 of its agencies from Bonn to the Western sectors of Berlin.

It was announced that Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will pay his first official visit to Berlin from April 16 to 18. The Mayor of West Berlin, Ernst Reuter, was in Bonn today to confer on arrangements for the visit and for establishment of the agencies.

A government spokesman said transfer of the agencies was "primarily a political move."

Several already are established in Berlin, such as the Federal Printing Office, but the speedup of the transfer of other units on the heels of the Government "unity proposal" of a few days ago makes the political character of the action clear. The Government has proposed elections for an all-European assembly to draft a new constitution.

Meeting of Cabinet To Be Held in Chicago

Chicago, March 24 (AP).—Jacob M. Arvey, Chicago Democratic leader, said today President Truman's Cabinet will hold an "unprecedented" session in Chicago in May—but it won't be official.

The party's Cook County chairman expects all the Cabinet secretaries for a Democratic Jefferson Jubilee to be highlighted by an address by Mr. Truman in the Chicago Stadium May 15.

U. S. Diplomats, Own Party Attack New Greek Premier

Athens, March 24 (U.P.).—Sophocles Venizelos, Greece's new Premier, ran into a barrage of criticism today from his own Liberal Party, from other and larger political parties, and from American diplomats.

The chief American criticism was that he had formed an unstable government, thus playing into the hands of the extreme right wing that hopes for a government collapse and a rightist victory in new elections.

Another criticism was that Venizelos' cabinet choices might drive Gen. Nicholas Plastiras and his left-of-center Independents into the extreme leftist group.

Informed sources said Venizelos was finding it difficult to persuade members of his own center party to participate in a coalition.

Last week United States Ambassador Henry Grady informed King Paul that a coalition headed by Venizelos, Plastiras and George Papandreou was the best solution.

The Americans were patently displeased with Venizelos, considering he not only broke promises to them, to Plastiras and to Papandreou, but was acting as a stooge for the right wing, with palace backing.

(In Washington the State Department said the United States will cooperate with any Greek government that has the support of the people and is able to carry out the objectives of the United States aid program.

(This statement was made in connection with reports from Athens that formation of a government by Venizelos is regarded as a slap at United States foreign policy.)

C. U. Is Big-Time With Sophocles

By Richard L. Coe

AN ABLE PERFORMANCE of great classic drama is so extraordinary an event that one should grasp the opportunity to see it. Catholic University's speech and drama department is now playing Sophocles' "Oedipus" and playing it so ably that we should all be grateful.

The run will continue through a week from tonight, tomorrow evening excepted, in the campus theater off Michigan ave., and if you miss it, you will be missing a massive, brooding experience. Indeed, this production is worthy of a downtown run.

For what a drama it is! twenty-five hundred years old and filled with the wondering spirit of mankind. A shattering story in one facet, a fascinating example of dramatic construction in another, a philosophical storm in another, an unexampled perspective of human experience in another. Sitting through it, one feels that the world and all time are indeed one.

Consider, for instance, its construction. Within the Greek unity of time, space and actions, we are told a tale which took a generation to run its course. By the fear of one phophecy that he will be killed by his son, a king has given orders that the child be destroyed. By one human being's tenderness for another, the son has lived, only to be gripped by the fear of another prophecy: he is to kill his father and to marry his mother. To escape such a chance he has fled to another land. His personal strength and courage avenges a chance attack on his pride by killing an anonymous old man and all but one of his party. His fortitude makes him a king in a new place and his marriage seems blessed with fertility and happiness.

But the Fates demand respect, and when pestilence strikes his city state, he's told by a soothsayer that the murderer of the old king must be driven from the city. With proud bitterness he seeks the cause of the curse, and as the drama plunges to its inexorable finale, the awful facts of the man who killed his father and married his own mother are revealed. Within so tight a form is this rushing, painful history unleashed.

The present version is a new one by Dudley Fitts and Robert Fitzgerald. They employ a simplicity of language, largely of short sentences or of long ones skillfully broken up. It is a bonier style than that of the Yeats and a less embellished one than that of Gilbert Murray. Rare is the individual, let alone working pressman, familiar enough with the original to judge properly of the Fitts-Fitzgerald distillation, but surely it can be said that its line is direct and clean, not perhaps a pillar of fire but a javelin in the air.

Production Values

By "able" I mean that the C. U. production is sufficient to impress one of the play's greatness and that it has avoided the pitfalls of seeming stuffy or lifeless. Alan Schneider's assured direction makes much of the flowing quality of the drama, and his use of the wide, deep apron of the campus theater is especially striking. Dr. Josephine McGarry Callan's choral speech and individual coaching is that splendid leader at her best, a skilled blending of classic demands with modern tastes.

The simple setting before the Theban palace is the finest James D. Waring has given us, an immensely satisfying, wise use of the vogueish planes and levels, and his lighting is the most effective the university has presented in years.

Performance-wise, the group has never had greater unity and while none of them can be expected to rise to the dizzying potentials of such dream, they do exceptionally well. Bill Callahan reads and acts the title role with a complete control of his resources; it is a wise and satisfactory performance. Teddy Marie Kinsev, the horrified Jocasta, is similarly in command of her role. Stan Telchin, the priest of Apollo, Warner Schreiner, the Creon, and Patricia Kielty, the Palace manager, are also outstanding.

Space precludes specific criticisms that might be made, especially of the final quarter-hour, but the paramount fact is that C. U. is giving us a great drama.

After what was getting to seem a long hegira, Father Hartke's young people are back on the track.

THE AGRICULTURE Department's lively welfare association tonight presents an evening that will be heard round the world via the Voice of America . . . The Jefferson Memorial Auditorium (14th and Independence ave. sw.) will be the scene of its International Theater Month performance, with Senator Guy Gillette making a brief talk on "The Theater Serves International Understanding," members of the Agriculture Symphony and chorus presenting folk songs of many lands and the department's Players in Edna St. Vincent Millay's one-act play, "Aria da Capo" . . . 8:30 is curtain time.

MATINEE TODAY, proudly boasts the Gayety, where "Goodby, My Fancy," with Faye Emerson, Sam Wanamaker, Haila Stoddard and Bramwell Fletcher is building nicely despite the midweek rains.

THE 57 CLUB, drama group of Sidwell Friends School yesterday gave two performances of Herczeg's "The Seven Sisters," proclaim Danielle Luzzatto and Jean Ryland, who did right well by their group at the University of Delaware's fall theater conference.

COLUMBIA PICTURES' Sam Galanty Miami Beaching after a three-week siege in Doctors Hospital with that virus bug.

PARE LORENTZ' "The River," Phillip Stapp's "Picture in Your Mind" and a British documentary, "Harnessing the Hills," are on tonight's Cinema 16 program at the Institute of Contemporary Arts, 1322 New York ave.

HOMEWARD BOUND: Jenny Workman comes back to the city where she learned to dance when she appears here next week with Ballet Theater at Constitution Hall. Miss Workman studied at Marion Venable's studio as a child and this is her third season with Ballet Theater

Army Presents Entomologist Service Award

The Army's highest award to a civilian, the Exceptional Meritorious Service Award, was presented yesterday to Dr. Kathryn M. Sommerman, 1518 Van Buren st. nw. She is an entomologist attached to the Army Medical Department Research and Graduate school.

The presentation, by Maj. Gen. Paul H. Streit, commandant of the Army Medical Center at Walter Reed Hospital, was for Dr. Sommerman's work in a cooperative research project in Alaska in 1947 and 1948. The project involved study of black flies and mosquitoes.

A native of Mount Carmel, Conn., Dr. Sommerman is a graduate of the University of Connecticut and Illinois. She has been on the Army staff since 1946. The presentation was at the post theater at Walter Reed Hospital.

Army Finds Way to Get 'Pure' Virus

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

Research biochemists at the Army Medical Center have found a new, easy way to get viruses in almost pure form, it was disclosed yesterday.

Importance of the feat is that it paves the way to intensified research on the elusive organisms responsible for many contagions, and may result in new and better vaccines to combat the virus diseases.

The new way of virus purification was described by Capt. Robert H. Muller, of the Army Medical Center, in Proceedings of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, published yesterday. Captain Muller is chief of the biochemistry section, Veterinary Division, Army Medical Department Research and Graduate School.

Uses Ion Exchange Resins

The new technique makes use of ion exchange resins to separate virus particles from the tissue cells on which they are grown. Somewhat similar processes are used to make drinking water from seawater and to extract infinitesimal amounts of radioisotopes from complex substances irradiated in atomic piles.

Using ion chambers, glass columns filled with special resins, laboratory workers have been able to remove up to 95 percent of contaminating tissue material from virus cultures, Captain Muller reported.

Similarly pure virus extractions have been developed for the same purpose, but are complicated and time consuming, it was noted. The new method, however, was described as "a one short operation" process.

Cultivated in Mouse Tissues

Viruses are generally cultivated in mouse tissues or in the developing embryos of hen's eggs. When harvested for study or the preparation of vaccines, the virus concentration still contain contaminating influences of the growth material.

Such contamination complicates further research with the organism. For certain viruses, moreover, it has been impossible to remove the unwanted tissues, making the vaccine produced dangerous to some individuals susceptible to allergic reactions.

The new purified virus preparations are now under further study at the Army Medical Center. The research, it is hoped, will result in more effective vaccines for preventing virus infections and for diagnostic testing materials to help doctors in earlier detection of virus diseases.

Baltimore, March 24 (AP).—A 14-year-old schoolboy was undergoing brain surgery under a local anesthetic.

The surgeon took a fine wire carrying a small charge of electricity and touched it to a certain area of the boy's exposed brain.

"I see two men sitting in an armchair," the youngster exclaimed.

The electrode was removed. The men in the armchair vanished.

Then it was touched to another area. This time the boy visioned "a man fighting."

Dreams Activated

Dr. Wilder G. Penfield, world-famed brain surgeon, told Johns Hopkins doctors last night that the electrical charge had activated dreams the boy had stored away. Dr. Penfield is professor of neurology and neurosurgery at McGill University and director of the Montreal Neurological Institute. He is giving a series of lectures at Johns Hopkins.

He told how scientists are now able to turn memories and dreams "on and off" during brain surgery. Each part of the brain has a particular function. He explained that through electrical stimulation, scientists are finding the various centers that make us act, think—and dream—as we do.

Case Histories Given

Dr. Penfield gave several case histories showing that when the electrode caused a certain reaction in a patient, the same reaction recurred when the electric charge was applied to the same spot again and again.

One was that of the boy and his dreams.

He explained how electrical stimulation of certain areas can cause loss of the power of expression by speech (aphasia).

While one patient was naming objects, stimulation was applied.

Of one object he said, "Oh, I know what that is. That is what you put in your shoes." Only after the electrode was withdrawn could he say "foot."

Dr. Penfield described the process as "a startling discovery (that) should have profound significance in the field of psychology, provided we can interpret the facts properly."

He said that the experiments on 500 different cases have indicated that there is some mechanism of the brain that "inhibits"—presses back—other memory patterns in the same area as the one being "used" at the time.

New York Avenue Presbyterian Church To Install Rev. G. M. Docherty Thursday

Installation of the Rev. George M. Docherty as pastor of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church will be at 7:45 p. m. Thursday at Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw.

Mr. Docherty, formerly pastor of North Church, Aberdeen, Scotland, will succeed the late Rev. Dr. Peter Marshall, who died last January.

The installation service is being held in the Baptist Church because New York ave. church is in the midst of a building program.

Services at Auditorium

Its old building at 13th st. and New York ave. nw. is being demolished to make room for a new $893,000 church on the site. While the construction is under way, Sunday services are being held in Lisner Auditorium at 21st and H sts. nw.

The Rev. Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church U.S.A., will deliver the sermon at the installation.

Others who will participate in the service are: the Rev. Isaac Steenson, moderator of the Presbytery of Washington City; the Rev. Robert T. Bridge, acting pastor of New York Avenue Church; the Rev. John Bailey Kelly, former pastor of Georgetown Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Bernard Braskamp, pastor of Gunton-Temple Presbyterian Church and chaplain of the House of Representatives, and the Rev. J. Hillman Hollister, pastor of Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church.

Graduate of Trinity

Mr. Docherty, called by the congregation after a meeting in November, is a graduate of Trinity College, Glasgow University. He is married and has two children.

The Rev. Dr. Norman V. Hope, who has been a guest preacher at the church's services since October, will preach for the last time at 11 a. m. Sunday at Lisner. He will speak on "Life's Ultimate Tragedy."

Mr. Docherty will conduct his first service as pastor of the church on Palm Sunday.

Alexandria School Will Be Dedicated

Formal dedication of St. Mary's Parochial School, Alexandria, Va., will be at 3:30 p. m. Sunday.

The Most Rev. Peter L. Ireton, Bishop of Richmond, will bless the building. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Francis J. Byrne, pastor of St. Bridget's Church, Richmond, Va. The 12-classroom building was opened for classes on March 1.

Lenten 'Afternoon'

The Rev. Albert T. Mollegen of the Virginia Theological Seminary will conduct a Lenten "quiet afternoon" for men and women at Ascension and St. Agnes Episcopal Church, 12th st. and Massachusetts ave. nw., from 2 to 5:30 p. m. today.

Capt. Louis Barish To Be Chaplain For Area Posts

Capt. Louis Barish has been named Jewish chaplain for all Military District of Washington posts.

He has also been assigned assistant post chaplain at the Army Medical Center, it was announced this week.

Capt. Barish

Before coming here, Captain Barish served as assistant advisor on Jewish affairs to the High Commission in Germany.

He is a graduate of the City College of New York, Columbia University, and the Jewish Theological Seminary, New York City.

Captain Barish, his wife and two children live at 2242 Washington ave., Silver Spring, Md.

Point 4 Program To Be Discussed

President Truman's Point Four program will be discussed at 8 p. m. Monday at the Washington Federation of Churches, 1751 N st. nw.

The panel discussion is the last in a series on "The Church and Current World Affairs" sponsored by the federation. Speakers will be Dewey Anderson, director of the Public Affairs Institute; Mrs. Rowena B. Rommel of the Department of State, and the Rev. Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, executive secretary of the federation.

The Rev. Philip Edwards, pastor of Woodside Methodist Church, will be the moderator.

Daily Lenten Services Set This Week

The following daily Lenten services are scheduled for this week:

Church of the Reformation, 212 East Capitol st., 12:10 p. m., Monday, the Rev. Dr. DeWitt L. Miller, pastor of the Church of the Brethren; Tuesday and Wednesday, the Rev. Dr. Edward L. R. Women Ponder Aid They Give Church

By Martha J. Hall
Post Reporter

Women have long been active in the Christian churches.

They have raised money, supported their own missions at home and abroad, taught in the Sunday schools and cooked the church suppers.

Yet today many of them are beginning to ask fundamental questions about the manner in which women can best contribute to the church.

Is it right, they ask, that women should carry on much of their work apart from the total church program? That they should have little or no direct voice in making church policies?

To study these questions, the World Council of Churches in 1948 set up a permanent Commission on the Life and Work of Women in the Church. It is composed of both men and women.

Geneva Session

Mrs. Theodore O. Wedel, wife of the warden of the College of Preachers of the Washington Cathedral, is a member of the commission. She recently returned from its first meeting held near Geneva, Switzerland.

The work of the commission goes far deeper than the question of whether women should be ordained ministers, Mrs. Wedel said. In fact, this question was not even discussed at the Geneva sessions.

In its early years, she said, the Christian Church was the first organization to liberate women. Today, paradoxically, it is one of the most conservative organizations as far as women are concerned, she said.

Millions of church women, Mrs. Wedel continued, are perfectly content with their position in the church today. But other millions, anxious to be a vital part of the life of the church, find the "second class citizenship" offered them unsatisfactory, she said.

Outside U. S. A.

Few churches outside of the United States, she explained, have large women's organizations. In most countries, church organizations are composed of both men and women working together.

Women have made progress in this country. Today, many major church commissions include women members, a thing which they would not have 10 years ago, Mrs. Wedel said.

Three specific projects have been outlined by the World Council's commission, she continued.

The first is publication of a survey on life and work of women in the church throughout the world, the first study of its kind.

Relationships Viewed

A second concern of the commission is a thorough study of the "man-woman relationship."

Although biologists, psychologists, and sociologists have studied this problem, Mrs. Wedel said, it is "basically a religious problem." In the past, the church's statements in this realm have been largely devoted to marriage and the family.

This portion of the study will consider what the church has to say to the woman who works, the woman who either from choice or circumstance, does not work.

The third task of the commission is to find ways of giving both spiritual and material help to church women, especially in the younger churches and the churches under persecution, who are seeking to serve God and man through the church.

'Evening of the Arts . . .'

The Washington Post

EXHIBIT AT SYNAGOGUE—An art exhibition and concert last night at the Washington Hebrew Congregation, staged by a group of Washington artists, was aptly titled an Evening of the Arts. Sydney Kellner, executive director of the temple, listens as Ralph de Burgos describes the setting of his painting, "The Red Roboso." The portrait is of his wife, standing at right. Mr. and Mrs. de Burgos live at 1661 Wisconsin ave. nw.

Memorial Carillon, Window To Honor Clerics' Late Wives

Gifts presented in memory of the wives of two Washington clergymen will be dedicated at services Sunday.

Carillonic bells, a memorial to Mrs. Agnes Harris, will be dedicated at 4 p.m. at Eldbrooke Methodist Church, River rd. and Wisconsin ave. nw.

Mrs. Harris, wife of the Rev. Paul Harris, pastor of the church, died in November, 1949. Methodist Bishop Charles W. Flint will dedicate the bells and Nancy Scott Harris, the pastor's daughter, will play the dedicatory hymn.

At Washington Cathedral, two stained glass windows in memory of Margaret Sturgis Suter, late wife of the Very Rev. John W. Suter, dean of the cathedral, will be dedicated at 5:15 p. m. Dean Suter will conduct the service.

The windows, placed near the south entrance of the South Crypt aisles of the cathedral, were given by Mrs. Suter's immediate family and intimate friends. Mrs. Suter died in May, 1949.

NO COMMERCIAL GRADE MEAT ever sold at GIANT!

GIANT Top Notch —is the label that marks the "top" quality meats you'll find in every one of GIANT'S 20 stores. Our many years of experience in this very important field, and the commanding position our buyers hold with the country's best sources of supply make it possible for us always to offer you select, tender cuts—meats that meet every test for quality, tenderness, flavor and value.
Giant FOOD DEPARTMENT STORES
When it comes to the grading of meats, there're various stages of "good." But GIANT buyers are instructed to buy only the best of the grade, even tho' it costs considerably more than the lower levels. Then our skilled meat cutters carefully prepare it by our own "Trim-Rite" method that assures you of:
(1) excellence of cut
(2) careful handling
(3) elimination of many inedible portions that are such expensive waste in less skillfully prepared meats.
Whatever your taste in meats, we are sure your GIANT selection will prove entirely satisfactory. See for yourself! Today, visit the GIANT store in your neighborhood.

Capital Transit In Month Goes Deeper in Red

By S. Oliver Goodman

Capital Transit Co. yesterday reported a deficit of $46,554 for February, compared with net income of $38,297 in the same 1949 month.

Operating revenues of $2,006,539 were down 9.3 percent, reflecting an 11.7 percent slump in revenue passengers. On the other hand, operating expenses of $1,729,608 were 4.3 percent lower, mirroring a belt-tightening process.

For the first two months this year Capital Transit showed a net deficit of $49,766, as compared with net profit of $104,999 in the corresponding 1949 period.

The company has filed for a fare increase and the District Public Utilities Commission has set April 4 for hearings to start.

For the first two months the transit system carried 46,156,114 revenue passengers, a drop of 4,885,098 or 9.6 percent. Total mileage operated was 6,735,136, off 4.5 percent.

TWO NEW OFFICERS: Lincoln National Bank yesterday announced appointment of two new trust officers. They are James P. Benfer, jr., formerly a national bank examiner in this district, and J. Frank Rice, promoted from assistant trust officer and assistant cashier. Benfer, a native of Washington, will assume his new post on April 17. Rice, also a native, has been associated with Lincoln National for 41 years.

APPOINTMENTS: Two executive appointments to the Washington District of Ford Motor Co.'s Ford division were announced yesterday by Howard W. Cook, Washington district sales manager. Harvey G. Shelly has been transferred from Norfolk to fill a newly-created post as assistant sales manager—city and will have charge of Ford dealer activities in Baltimore. Charles M. Murphy was elevated to car sales department manager, another new post.

SPLIT VOTED: Stockholders of the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light & Power Co. of Baltimore have approved a split of each present share of common stock into three shares. The action came at the shareholders' annual meeting at which Charles P. Crane was elected president. Crane, formerly executive vice president, succeeded William Schmidt, jr., who was reelected chairman of the board.

EARNINGS: Pennsylvania Railroad reported a deficit of $6,033,928 for February, compared with a net loss of $1,398,671 in same 1949 month. For first two months this year, deficit totaled $4,790,168 against net income of $586,005 in same 1949 period. Other earnings statements:

UTILITY OUTLOOK: Standard & Poor's in a current survey says the electric light and power industry is expected to show further earnings improvement this year, following the notable gain of 1949. Declaring that all signs point to continued gains in electric sales, the survey remarks that operating costs should be held under good control. Concluding, the survey comments: "Notwithstanding heavy outlays for expansion, dividend increases may be possible in some instances."

NET DROPS: Best & Co., which operates a branch store in Washington, reported net profits of $1,973,462 or $3.29 a share for year ended January 31, compared with $2,853,076 or $4.76 a share the previous year. The final report, supplementing an earlier preliminary report, showed sales of $36,393,986 or 7 percent under the previous year's $39,116,627 for the New York department store and its 15 branch stores. "For many months retail volume has been falling," said Philip Leboutillier, president, "particularly with those dealing with soft lines only, having come under greater competitive pressure, which combined with rising taxes and rising costs of operation, present very serious problems."

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Clyde D. Harrison was honored yesterday at a luncheon here on his twenty-fifth anniversary with the Guardian Life Insurance Co. . . . Mrs. Robert Woods has been named manager of the sales department of Smith's Transfer & Storage Co, Inc. . . . Leon Katz, John R. Lahey, A. B. House, M. Dubofsky and Chester R. Jones, all of Washington, are at the Greenbrier Hotel in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., as sales prizes given by State Mutual Life Assurance Co. . . . Lowry H. Crites of General Mills, Inc., has been elected to the board of the Advertising Research Foundation.

Bank Club Elects

New officers of the Washington Loan & Trust Club, elected Thursday night, are Miss Francis E. Powell, president; Joseph L. Berry, vice president; Ernest Robinson, treasurer; Mrs. Ethel McDonald, secretary, and Carl Cioffi, assistant secretary.

Hoover Agency Plan Scored at Rivers Meeting

By the United Press

President Truman yesterday praised the National Rivers and Harbors Congress—with which he sometimes disagrees—for its "important contribution" to strengthening America.

Mr. Truman sent his message from Key West, Fla., where he is vacationing, to the opening session here of the annual convention of the congress.

The congress proposes and seeks Federal approval for water and land development projects. It would like Mr. Truman to back more of the projects and it disagrees with his ideas for creating valley authorities.

The President said the importance of the organization's work has steadily increased since it was created 49 years ago.

Senator John L. McClellan (D., Ark.), president of the congress, assailed as "vicious" a Hoover Commission recommendation to transfer the rivers and harbors work of the Army engineers to the Bureau of Reclamation.

"It is purely a grab for power," he said, "an attempt to concentrate in one single agency an unprecedented power both economical and political."

Calling the proposal a "dream of theorists" and the "planning of plotters," McClellan pledged himself to fight "with all my power" pending legislation to carry out the recommended transfer.

Representative William M. Whittington (D., Miss.) backed McClellan. Under the guise of lack of coordination, he said, the Hoover proposal actually plans to "scrap" both the Army engineers and the Reclamation Bureau.

Senator Spessard L. Holland (D., Fla.), member of the Senate Public Works Committee, told the convention that his committee considers public works projects "on a completely nonpartisan basis." He predicted public enthusiasm for public works will continue to increase as the public understands the "immense profit" for every dollar spent.

U. S. Attorney Rejects Curb On Trust Talk

Fort Worth, March 24 (AP).—Assistant United States Attorney Robert A. Bergson has canceled a talk here next Tuesday before a civic club after its directors voted to restrict his remarks.

Bergson, Government prosecutor in antitrust cases, was to address downtown Lions Club on suits involving A. & P. food stores.

Club directors decided Bergson could talk if he dealt in "generalities" and did not cite the A. & P. or other cases specifically, program chairman Ernest O. Gillam said today.

Bergson canceled the talk yesterday after Gillam telephoned him the directors' restrictions, the program chairman said.

"He told me he would not be muzzled," Gillam said.

Support Job For Highway Span Finished

The job of supporting the northern approaches of the new Highway Bridge against further sinking has been completed, District Highway Director J. N. Robertson said yesterday.

Robertson said the abutments and wing-walls, which sank from 2 to 18 inches, have been anchored to bedrock by 90 piles across which cross beams have been set to hold the bridge approach in its present place.

Next project, said Robinson, will be to pour concrete for a 100-foot section of the bridge surface at its northern end. This could not be done, he said, until the supports had been installed. The bride roadway will then receive a blacktop surface, he said.

The work should be completed by the time the approach roads are surfaced, Robertson said. Opening of the bridge has been set for May 1, weather permitting.

Navy's 1949 Health Record Best in History

The Navy reported yesterday that it went through 1949 with an all-time good health record, even better than the previous high it set for itself in 1948.

The 1949 state of health in the Navy brought new low records in the incidences of diseases, injuries, deaths, and days lost on account of illness.

Fewer common colds and a 33 percent reduction in venereal diseases contributed largely to the 1949 record, Navy spokesmen said.

The Navy's average individual lost less than a week's time (6.7 days, to be exact) from duty because of illness during 1949. This corresponds to yearly averages ranging from 8 to 15 days per person during the years from 1900 through 1948.

In 1949, the health report showed, the annual incidence rate for disease and injuries of all kinds among naval personnel dropped to 376 per 1000 strength. This represents a 15 percent drop from the previous record of 442.8, set in 1948.

Chrysler makes new offer to end 8½ week strike.

CHRYSLER WOULD PUT UP $30,000,000 NOW

TO FUND PENSIONS for LIFE AS EMPLOYEES RETIRE

CHRYSLER Corporation offered today to deposit 30 million dollars now in a fund to back its good faith, ability and willingness to pay pensions for life to its employees as they retire.

This sum would be more than sufficient to fund pensions for life, at the time of retirement, to people who retire in the next five years of a pension contract. If the contract is not renewed, the remaining deposit would be used to fund, as they retire, pensions for other employees in the order of their retirement on the same terms as if the contract continued. If and as Social Security benefits increase, the deposit would be reduced accordingly.

This proposal and what goes with it in improved insurance and contract provisions make it all the more senseless and inhuman for 89,000 Chrysler employees to be kept out of work for any issues in this strike.

Chrysler Corporation made it unmistakedly clear in its new offer not only that it is willing to pay pensions comparable with other industry plans and to continue to do so, but also that it is willing to fund its pension plan on a sound actuarial basis calculated to assure employees as they retire that they will get for life the benefits proposed.

While the Company would thus provide for funding the pensions of employees as they retire, it would eliminate any unnecessary "kitty" fund—one of the Union demands that caused the strike.

It is the hope of the Company that pension agreements under this plan will be an important factor to its employees for a long time.

Chrysler's new plan also provides for joint responsibility with the Union on all matters related to eligibility of employees retiring under this plan.

A joint Company and Union board would be set up to administer and decide questions of eligibility, credited service, age and other related matters in accordance with the contract. Chrysler Corporation's pre-strike offer proposed that there should be such joint handling of these administrative matters, but as part of the bargaining procedure.

In addition to the provisions for pensions and for joint administration of pension benefits —but not joint control of the fund—the new offer liberalizes in important ways employee eligibility for pensions and includes greater insurance benefits and many amendments to the previous contract desired respectively by the Union and the Company.

Chrysler Corporation's new offer was outlined by Robert W. Conder, director of labor relations, when he met today with the Union's bargaining representatives, in the presence of Federal and State mediators.

It will be recalled that prior to the strike, Chrysler Corporation's offer provided that employees with 25 years of credited service at age 65 would, when they retire, receive payments, including Social Security, of $100 a month for life. Eligible employees who retire at age 65 but who have 15 to 25 years of credited service would get proportionate payments. The Company had also offered to back its pension obligations with its full financial resources and integrity.

This was rejected by the Union. The Union at that time demanded that the Company should deposit so many cents per hour in a fund and demanded that the Union exercise joint control over this "kitty" fund. These two demands caused the strike which was called before the Company's representatives had an opportunity to discuss and develop its original offer in detail.

Today's offer would set aside 30 million dollars to provide actuarially determined coverage as regards employees retired under the plan as they retire. In funding pensions as employees retire, Chrysler's proposal is comparable with the steel plan that brought about settlement of the steel strike.

More liberal retirement provisions are also included in Chrysler's new proposal. An employee may retire at age 65. As against the original proposal that retirement at 68 would be compulsory, employees with Company consent may work beyond the age of 68. Employees may retire as early as age 60 if they have 25 years of service, with pension payments reduced proportionately.

The Company's offer also includes proposals dealing with past service which had not reached the discussion stage prior to the strike. Past service would be credited on either seniority or accumulated service, whichever is greater, provided there had been no break in accumulated service of more than two years at one time. Future service would be based on one year's credit for 1700 hours of work instead of 1800 as in the pre-strike offer, and those working less hours would receive proportionate credits.

As regards sickness and accident insurance, the Company offered to increase weekly payments from $25 to $28. Employees could carry their full insurance as long as they are on the payroll instead of only until age 65. The employees get more insurance for less money.

Free insurance would be provided after employees had retired as follows: $1000 for life for those with 25 years of credited service; $750 for life for those with 20 to 24 years of credited service; and $500 for life for those with 15 to 19 years of credited service.

The complete cost of the pensions would be paid by Chrysler Corporation and the employees would have to pay only part of the cost of insurance—substantially less than previously.

The Company's proposed contract also includes adjustments of some of the so-called inequities in rates requested by the Union.

■ Chrysler Corporation, Detroit 31, Michigan, March 24, 1950

If the Union wants pensions, Chrysler's offer is a good way to get them.

New Tack On Slums

The House Appropriations Committee is 100 percent right in urging abandonment of the Marshall Heights redevelopment scheme. For several years now the controversial plan for Marshall Heights has been a millstone around the neck of slum clearance and low-rent public housing in the District. A great deal of energy has gone into this one plan and it has gotten nowhere. Meanwhile it has blocked the entire slum-clearance program, for the controversy over it caused Congress to immobilize the Redevelopment Land Agency, and activity on its part is necessary to get a real attack on the slums under way.

Some day, undoubtedly, the National Capital Park and Planning Commission will have to return to Marshall Heights. When that day comes we hope that it will start at the beginning, with the planning of proper street, sewer and water systems. Public and private housing can then be brought into the pattern. For the present, however, attention should certainly be shifted to some of the city's worst slum areas where public housing projects can be appropriately located.

The National Capital Housing Authority is laying preliminary plans to build 2000 low-rental dwelling units in its first annual program. Fortunately, it now has vacant land on which 500 units can be built. It will be necessary to use this land because housing must be provided for families that will be displaced by the clearance of slums and because most of the slum areas are now overcrowded. Obviously the Land Agency should be swinging into action so that it will be in a position to begin the demolition of slums as soon as the NCHA is able to absorb at least some of the displaced families. NCHA plans to divide its activities between congested slum districts that must be completely rebuilt, deteriorated districts that are not fully built up, and vacant land. It is of the utmost importance that slum sites be cleared by the Land Agency in time for use in this program. While NCHA has authority to acquire sites on its own, it is doubtful whether the cost limitations imposed by the Public Housing Administration will enable it to take over slum sites without the help of the Land Agency.

Nor do the complications end there. The Land Agency must have general directions from the NCPPC in site planning. A detailed city-wide housing plan will be needed as well as more specific area plans. Now that Marshall Heights has come a cropper, the least the commission can do is to drop it and push ahead with its city-wide and regional plans so that the Land Agency will know where to begin. A high degree of cooperation between the commission, the Land Agency and the NCHA is going to be necessary to get the slum redevelopment program into operation expeditiously.

Census Critics

We agree fully with President Truman in asserting that "prompt, complete, and accurate answering of all official inquiries made by census officials should be regarded as one of the requirements of good citizenship and an exercise in fundamental democracy." Critics who protest that questions about the sources and amount of family income smack of the police state and are an unwarranted invasion of privacy need to be reminded that there is a profound difference between the kind of inquiry throwing light on economic conditions and enabling both the Government and private citizens to function more efficiently, and the inquisitorial probes to which citizens of police states are subjected.

As a matter of fact, the privacy of the individual is invaded whenever he is compelled to fill out an income-tax declaration. Yet the public interest requires such declarations and the withholding of information is penalized. The principle is no different when the inquiries are made by census takers for the purpose of acquiring information useful to the public. Moreover, we fail to see why anyone should object to giving such information to public officials, unless they are engaged in shady transactions. Indeed, Dr. Hauser, acting director of the Census Bureau, says that over a period of 10 years the bureau has asked half a million people to answer questions about income and less than 1 percent of them have refused to cooperate. In view of this record, it is open to question whether it was necessary to apply compulsion to insure compliance with demands for information. However, it is a comparatively harmless sort of compulsion that does not justify the angry denunciations of congressional troublemakers.

The data, when obtained, will be held in confidence by the Census Bureau, and bureau employes are subject to imprisonment if they disclose information about the personal affairs of any individual. With these safeguards there is little reason to fear that the census will be used for any but legitimate purposes, and even less excuse for hysterical denunciation of Census Bureau methods. It is precisely this example that we are asking other people to follow so that the nations shall know themselves. Without this knowledge there cannot be wise governance.

$12.8 Billion Defense

General Eisenhower's warning that the United States has in some respects disarmed past the safety point already has provoked a considerable ruckus over the military budget. This statement, of course, was just a passing reference in a speech devoted mainly to other matters, and regrettably the general was not specific. Certainly, as we have said, there are soft spots in American defense—scientific research, antisubmarine protection, jet bombers. The judgment of the Joint Chiefs of Staff is that the armed forces probably can meet essential present requirements with the 12.8-billion-dollar 1951 budget approved by the House Appropriations Committee. There is, though, a necessary caveat which underscores General Eisenhower's words: No further cut for the sake of a cut can be sustained without impairing fighting ability.

It is curious that the same Appropriations Committee which criticized President Truman for impounding extra funds voted last year for additional air groups itself trimmed some 203 million dollars from the budget requests, including money asked by the Air Force. There is room for argument over whether the President acted properly in defying Congress; however, Arthur Krock in the New York Times cites several precedents for executive impounding of funds when the expenditure seems unwise. The vote for 58 instead of 48 air groups was largely the product of fright, and for the President to have given in to it would have been to unbalance the national defense and incur heavy procurement obligations against future budgets.

All in all, the 1951 budget seems to be a fairly tight affair, reflecting Secretary Johnson's administrative savings—though there is need for more candor from Mr. Johnson on just where strength has been reduced, as, for example, in the number of Navy carriers in commission. The appropriation is generally regarded as an Army budget—that is to say, it provides funds for the Army to modernize and increase its weapons. The implication is that the turn of Navy and Air Force will come later on.

Appropriations alone provide no yardstick by which to judge the effectiveness of a defense which may be improved in terms of organization without an increase in funds. As a matter of fact, American defense consists quite as much of a realistic diplomacy and a bold world program for peace as of arms alone. It would be unfortunate, however, if Congress were tempted to tamper further with the military budget. Secretary Johnson has been aggressive in his economies, and the need now is for consolidating them.

Diplomatic Blues

Two aspects of the Tydings hearing deserve some attention while the McCarthy charges are being sifted. One is brought to mind in the Service case, and it is the question of great concern to a free press trying to discharge its duty, of the continuing ability to get the news about our diplomatic affairs that the public is entitled to. The other aspect of the hearing is the constraint that might be put upon foreign service officers at home and abroad in divulging information to foreign officials.

The old charge against John S. Service, now resurrected by Senator McCarthy, is the Amerasia magazine case. It concerned abstraction of Government documents and their use by editors of Amerasia. In the case of Mr. Service, the grand jury failed to bring in an indictment, and he was released. He was then reinstated in the State Department with an apology from Secretary Byrnes. Those were the days in mid-1945 before the spy scare. On looking up our own comment at the time, we discovered that our concern, in common with that of other papers, related to leaking to "favored journalists." It was a subject much to the fore in those days, and we urged the State Department to permit free and impartial access to all information not involving military security. The various categories of "privileged," "secret" and "reserved" information should be abolished, we said, and the circulation of genuinely confidential information restricted only to those who could be implicitly trusted. What we are now afraid of is that the press might find a clamp put upon information to which the public is legitimately entitled by State Department officials who have been made overly discreet by continued harassment.

The other aspect of the McCarthy accusations has been expressed by one or two diplomats uneasy about the nature of their functions and the fulfillment of their responsibilities. It has hitherto been the practice to swap official information with the officials of other friendly powers. But in this world of quick change an ally today might be an enemy tomorrow. In that event, suspicion might be cast upon the Americans who participate in trading information in time of good relations. Fear of the future may thus make the diplomat constrained, to the hurt of the gathering of information necessary to wise diplomacy. In other words, his own work as well as public relations might be handicapped. These implications of the current investigation should not be lost to sight.

Burnham Vs. Kennan

The population of Washington—or that part of it, at any rate, that is responsive to the winds of doctrine—might be divided into Burnhamites and Kennanists.

Putting it in general terms, Mr. George F. Kennan, whose views were published in a recent issue of the Reader's Digest, and reprinted in our edition of February 26, speaks for the policy of "containment," that is of resisting any further advances of Communist imperialism, of giving aid wherever possible to the enemies of communism abroad, of being reconciled to the possibility of atomic war without insisting upon its inevitability, and above all of preserving the contrast of moral, spiritual and humanistic values that exists between our world and the Communist world.

Mr. Burnham's views, set forth in his book, The Coming Defeat of Communism, are the current staples of conversation at Washington salons and dinner tables and in the offices of the Pentagon. His argument that the policy of containment can lead only to defeat follows from the premise that we are already engaged in total war with communism and have been since the spring of 1944 when the Greek naval forces at Alexandria mutinied under Communist leadership. The only difference between cold war and shooting war, says Mr. Burnham, is one of tactical expediency. Strategically and politically, it is all the same thing.

If the politicians and the generals have been slow to recognize this, it is mainly because they have deceived themselves about the nature of modern war. War, says Mr. Burnham, may no longer be conceived in terms of national frontiers, uniformed armies and formal declarations. Its true nature is to be discovered in the various resistance movements and in the conspiratorial character of modern politics. The enemy is not merely beyond our lines but also within them. His enormous successes have been due to his understanding that in this age war is best waged by the instruments of political subversion.

From this it follows that we must adopt the enemy's vision and attack him by his own methods. We must organize and abet subversion as it was organized against Hitler by the Office of Strategic Services, and as it is now organized against us by the Cominform. We must seek alliances wherever possible, applying the single test of militant antipathy to communism. Among the potential allies with whom effective cooperation is possible Mr. Burnham mentions the Vatican, the Gaullists of France, and followers of Islam. We must, he says, build up active resistance movements within Communist territories all over the world. In propaganda as well as in tactics policy must pass from the defensive to the offensive, since effort to merely answer or rebut Communist propaganda "is as grievous an error . . . as it is to be, on the field of battle, deceived into an improper concentration by a fake offensive." The anti-Communist propaganda, should > always keep the initiative. It should never be diverted by an enemy propaganda attack to a purely defensive rhetoric of defense and reply. If a reply has to be given, then the reply should be made the occasion and point of departure for a renewed attack.

Once the initiative has passed from the Kremlin to its adversaries, Mr. Burnham believes, the Communist edifice of power, because of its own inherent weaknesses, will crumble; for the advantage now possessed by communism is geographical rather than political or ideological.

Mr. Burnham's views are set forth with much incisive logic and no little dogmatic assurance. It seems to us, however, that his argument has one great weakness, namely, that it takes no account of the sort of world that is to arise upon the ruins of a defeated communism. Here again one is reminded of the truth that wars, whether cold or hot, can never be ends in themselves and that the only valid reason for war is to make peace.

THE SPRING

Do you remember the little spring we found
Out in the pasture that bright April morning,
That seemed to have given the world a shake
And roused it, like a sleeper, from deep slumber—
Do you remember?

Down where two green hills
Ran up close together it trickled out
And made a little sound like young girls laughing
At they knew not what. And you and I laughed, too,
And sat us down beside the gaysome thing
For close acquaintance. We knew it hadn't long
To live; wet weather springs don't last you said,
Summer dries them up. This one knew it, too,
And it was all a-rush to get the most
From life while time was good. You said that, too,
And laughed. Then suddenly you left off laughing
And looked at me, and in your eyes I saw
The fear of some trapped thing. I understood.
Without a word we rose, and hastily
We walked away.

Pollution Answer

I have been reading in The Washington Post recently the statements that: (1) the Potomac River below this community is rapidly becoming a cesspool by sewage pollution, with all the costs, losses, and dangers to health that such a condition entails; (2) great expense must be incurred to expand the plants for cleaning sewage, if this condition is to be cured, and (3) that the sludge from existing plants now operating is accumulating near Lorton, Va., in such quantities that it becomes a nuisance, and a danger to health.

Quite a few years ago the city of Milwaukee had a bid to do over the Milwaukee River, an aqueous cul-de-sac like the Chicago River, but, unlike the latter, incapable of having its flow reversed so that the sewage could be sent down the Illinois and Mississippi rivers. So the city installed several huge pumps to raise great volumes of water from Lake Michigan into a canal that, leading this water into the river above the sewer outfalls, would flush the sewage into the lake. That was very nice until they realized that they were then making more troubles than they had before, not least of these being the fact that they were now pumping diluted sewage into their city water system.

So, being cornered, so to speak, they built a huge disposal plant, and so cleaned up the mess. Of course, it cost a lot of money, and of course, it produced a lot of sludge, which the city did not pile up near some small town in the vicinity to become a public nuisance and a monument to waste. They processed it and you can buy it in 25, 50 or 100 pound bags at any store in town here that sells garden supplies.

"Milorganite," is marked "Made by the Sewerage Commission, Milwaukee" and contains 6 percent organic nitrogen and 2.4 percent available phosphoric acid. It is sterile of weeds and germ or disease infections, is almost oderless, and far cleaner and more agreeable to handle than any other fertilizer I know.

"Fly-By-Night Schools"

It is confusing and shocking to read your March 12 editorial going to bat for the Veterans Administration in its handling of the GI educational training program. Your editorial makes much of the plight of the GI training program and the fact that it got there because of the private vocational schools. Your first premise is wrong in that you have accepted a Veterans Administration report which in itself is a series of misstatements and half truths published for the single purpose of gathering enough Congressional support to put a quick end to the GI educational training program. No one condones the abuses that have cropped up in the program but the VA report itself only lists 258 in the past four years as stacked up a total of 8800 vocational schools in the country.

It may interest you to know that less than 10 percent of the almost 9 billion spent for GI education has gone to the private vocational schools. It is a fact that 50 percent more of the 9 billion dollars spent have gone to schools of higher learning. A veteran who is a college graduate out of work is just as hungry as a veteran who took a watchmaking course; the only difference is that it cost the taxpayer $6500 to make the hungry college graduate and $2,000 to make the hungry watchmaker.

Just check the record—compare the tuition charged by the school of higher learning for two brothers—one a veteran and one not. One pays a normal tuition rate, the veteran an exorbitant rate established by the "legislate-regulate" policy of the VA. The colleges are exploiting the GI educational program to the tune of millions on this rate differential.

The one way for Congress to clean up the present mess in the GI educational training program is to pass the Taft-Teague bill now pending in the House. This bill spells out the duties and responsibilities of the Veterans Administration and lays down a sensible line of operation.

"Maritime Hiring Halls"

Concerning your March 21 editorial "Maritime Hiring Halls," it may be that my unfamiliarity with details of the seamen's hiring hall dispute may make that problem seem simpler than it is, but why couldn't some existing agency of the Government, for example the United States Employment Service, take over the hiring hails and operate them just as satisfactorily as is claimed by the unions but with the difference that both union and non-union seamen would be registered and assigned to jobs on a nondiscriminating rotating basis?

Would not this procedure meet the requirements of the Taft-Hartley Act and thus save this fundamentally excellent law from the weakening wedge of a special exemption?

First Families Of Erin

As one who can trace his ancestry over hundreds of generations from the Fir Bolg or pre-Goidelic Irish aristocracy, I protest indignantly the misleading and heraldically inaccurate map published in green ink in your issue of March 17. No doubt it was highly flattering to the snobbish and social-climbing instincts of the descendants of Milesian upstarts and Anglo-Norman arrivistes to find themselves listed as "the first families of Erin"; but those few of them who know something of Irish history and mythology understand perfectly well that they are nothing of the sort. While you were about it you might as well have put in the names of Cromwellian squireens and Jacobite planters.

Not one of the supposedly royal or noble names on your map is any more ancient than the reign of the upstart Brian Broihme (A.D. 1202-14). But the Bagmans and also the Dananns (from whom I am descended on the distaff side) were among "the first families of Erin" (it was called something else in those days) before there were any of these Goidelic roughnecks around to make life hideous with the kind of brawling and drinking and cattle thieving described in the story of the Tain bo Cualnge.

There was nothing in those times to disturb the peace of the place except the snakes; and in my opinion all these "O's" and "Macs" and "Fitzes" and other varieties of Johnny-come-latelys were a poor exchange for them. But I suppose the airs these people give themselves nowadays are just another illustration of the ancient proverb: Hibernis ipsis Hiberniores.

"Freedom Vs. Security"

Your editorial "Freedom vs. Security" on March 19 creates certain misconceptions in the minds of those unacquainted with H.R. 4703 and security legislation in general.

Section 1 (a) of the bill is not a novel feature, as your editorial intimates. It reenacts existing law, except for the addition of an "Air Force Base" to the restricted areas, entrance to which is prohibited for unauthorized persons. It is hard to see why the section is dangerous to the unsuspecting citizen. To be convicted, an accused must enter a restricted area (1) "for the purpose of obtaining information respecting the national defense" and (2) "with intent or reason to believe that the information is to be used to the injury of the United States, or to the advantage of any foreign nation."

Section 1 does contain some new provisions of law. Subsection (d) makes it an offense for one with authorized access to classified matter to communicate to unauthorized persons such matter, including "information relating to the national defense which information the possessor has reason to believe could be used to the injury of the United States or to the advantage of any foreign nation." Such information clearly would fall within the generally accepted definitions of classified information as used by the National Defense Establishment.

Subsection (e) states and clarifies the present paragraph 4 of Section 793 of the Criminal Code. Subsection (f) extends existing law to make it an offense for one to allow classified matter "to be lost, stolen, abstracted or destroyed," and to fail to make prompt report of such loss, stealing, abstraction, or destruction. Subsection (g) makes conspiracy to violate the other subsections an offense equal in gravity with the actual crimes themselves.

Your editorial gives the impression that such provisions interfere with "freedom of information." This is a patent and obvious non sequitur. Once information is classified, "freedom of information" has nothing to do with the matter. What you hint by implication is that, even though matter may be classified, the security statutes should not be so rigorous as to effectively prevent any disclosure to unauthorized persons, newspapers included.

Your editorial further criticizes Section 4 of the proposed legislation dealing with the promulgation of security regulations by the Secretary of Defense.

First, such authority was delegated to the Secretary of the Navy during the war and until June 1947. Secondly, the House Judiciary Committee found that such delegation of authority was constitutional. It should be fundamental that the Defense Establishment has the right to make necessary regulations to protect the security of its installations.

Your editorial states that passage of H. R. 4703 is a "revealing commentary on our times." By that, I presume you mean that the legislation is part and parcel of an alleged "hysteria" to assure the national security at the expense of civil liberties. Representative Goodwin stated the compelling reasons for the enactment of H. R. 4703 in the debate of March 15.

"It seems to me . . . that the rights and liberties of the individual cease when the rights of the people intervene and become paramount in the interest of the national safety. I think we ought also to remember that when we think of our vaunted and boasted civil liberties, we might well pause to reflect that these liberties and rights might very easily disappear unless we in the legislative halls do everything within our power to insure that this Republic shall exercise its right and its duty of self-preservation."

Honors For The Unsung

By Malvina Lindsay

Better Award System

THIS IS the open season for awards—"Oscars" in Hollywood, best dressed lists in New York, prizes, medals, citations for this that and the other, conferred by organizations and magazines.

In all this it is curious how familiar names and faces show up. "To him that hath shall be given." What is also strange is the scarcity of awards and honors for the types of persons whose services are most needed by the Nation.

Take school teachers. Almost every day we hear or read warnings about the desperate shortage of teachers. Yet so far as I have been able to find out there is no recognition on any big national scale (and very little on local scales) for teachers who are rendering outstanding service.

And do national groups or even communities pay any special tribute to altruistic, outstanding nurses? Yet we must encourage more young women to take up nursing if we are not to be caught helpless on our backs when we are ill or aged.

What about the vanishing country preacher who receives little more than the satisfaction of serving his fellowmen? And how often is public appreciation given to the social worker who is foster mother or father to a community?

THEN THERE are the legislators—in Congress, State bodies, city councils—who saw wood instead of seeking headlines, who put the public good above partisanship or demagoguery, who give all they have to serving an indifferent and nagging public? Why are we not honoring more of these, letting them know we think as much of them as we do of bathing beauties and best-dressed women? Why are we not thus encouraging better men to run for office?

Furthermore, why don't we have a day to honor "ghosts" in Government, the men and women in the back offices who write the speeches and articles, draw up the statements for the big front officials? And why don't we pay tribute to the "ghost" thinkers who evolve the plans and programs presented to a waiting world by the top bosses?

It is true that the persons I have suggested for awards are not spectacular or glamorous. Their names are not already in Who's Who. It is also true some of today's awards are given for real professional achievement. But we do tend to be superficial in choosing those whom we honor, and we tend to neglect certain fields, essentially in the social sciences.

FOR EXAMPLE, Pageant magazine recently polled 272 newswomen to choose the five most influential women in this country. No one can question the influence of those chosen—Eleanor Roosevelt, Emily Post, Sister Elizabeth Kenny, Clare Boothe Luce and Dorothy Thompson. These were not superficial choices. But strangely not a single outstanding educational or religious leader was among the 107 women nominated. Was that because no one had gained influence in those fields? Or is it that such activities do not get into the news?

Some persons deride the whole system of awards. But the public apparently likes it, and it does tend to emphasize some solid achievement. Nor is the materialistic suggestion, "Say it with better wages," the whole answer. Psychology stresses that the esteem of one's fellows is a powerful driving force to the average person.

What is needed is to get away from the juvenile "good, better, best" system and to broaden the bestowal of tributes so as to discover and encourage more persons in neglected fields. If the world thinks our whole interest in this country is concentrated on choosing campus and beach queens and promising boys who may invent gadgets, then that is our fault.

Nor do we always need to hold banquets and present plaques. One New Jersey town embarking on a program to make its school children happier realized that the key to this was happier teachers. It instituted a program to give its teachers easier lives and more prestige.

And a radio station manager near Washington put in a place of prominence in his station a photograph of the teacher who had most influenced him. Later he had her come here to be honor guest before a county educational group and he broadcast the program.

A little more imagination and discrimination in recognizing achievement by individuals and organizations would at least bring in some new names and faces when the annual honors were passed out.

Government Layoffs

Why doesn't the Government introduce a plan of transfer to fill vacant jobs instead of hiring in one place and firing in another. There is somewhere a place for every worker that is laid off where he could be used even if the work was entirely different. The Government yells to high heaven about layoffs by business, then lays off more itself. In my opinion this destroys morale that we pay to build up in our departments.

Case Of Mr. 'X'

By Marquis Childs

Guilt By Association Compounded

THE REWARDS and penalties of Government service have in the past more or less balanced off. If the pay tended to be small and the raises rigidly fixed by Civil Service, there was security of tenure, long paid vacations and a pension at the end of the road.

Childs

But new hazards have been added that are likely for many to outweigh the hope of security. There is the danger of public denunciation under the cloak of congressional immunity.

This can fall out of the blue on anyone regardless of how guiltless he may have been. It is a special hazard for those who must work in one of the departments, such as State or Defense, or Central Intelligence, dealing with secret documents and necessarily in some instances making contact with persons connected with some cause or ideology suspected of not being 100 percent American.

One of Senator McCarthy's so-called "worst cases" illustrates this hazard. Let's call it case X. I have looked into case X as thoroughly as possible and it has given me some idea of what it means for a man convinced of his own innocence to live under the threat of a denunciation that can blast his career; the formal refutation of the charges never quite catching up with the initial blast.

As a result of his war record, X was assigned in the State Department to deal with a matter touchy from the viewpoint of both foreign and domestic policy. He was directed by his superior to work with the representative of a private association involved in trying to help solve this problem.

OVER A period of several years X, and his superiors, worked closely with this individual who was helpful and reliable. X never had any reason to suspect that the man was in any way related to communism, although security officers apparently had the representative of the private association under suspicion. On the basis of this official relationship X stands accused. The State Department has investigated and reinvestigated X and has completely cleared him.

What seems to have happened is that an intelligence agent reported X's contacts, made under official orders, with the association's representative. This report went into X's confidential file, but when the whole file was examined the reason for the contact was obvious.

A related charge against X concerns his part in bringing into the department Y, who was summoned before the House Un-American Activities Committee and declined to testify on the ground of self-incrimination. Y was in the department only a few months, having been loaned by another agency. During most of this period X was out of the country. When he returned, he found evidence of Y's incompetence and fuzzy-mindedness and recommended his dismissal. This was two years before Y was questioned by the House Un-American Activities Committee.

A third charge against X relates to the contemplated employment of Z whom department security officers considered a doubtful security risk. After long delay X was given the unpleasant duty by his superiors of telling Z that he should not wait for possible clearance but should take a university job that had been offered to him. X had never known Z before and has never seen him since.

LOOKING into this case, I am convinced X was doing nothing more than his duty under the direction of his superiors. Even if Z and Y later became Communists, and there is no proof that they did, X should not be convicted on the basis of what may have happened after his association with them.

If this sort of thing is to happen, then it will be increasingly difficult to find able people willing to work in delicate and touchy areas. The risk will be too great. And it is just in these areas that ability is essential.

The time has come to be less simple-minded about such matters. We seem willing to embrace anyone who confesses he has been a Communist or a Russian agent and then recants. What better cover could a Russian master spy have than such a confession to give him, or her, the cloak of respectability? In this dangerous world we must learn that appearances are not always what they seem to be.

What if Joe McCarthy were sitting on the other side of that table? The accused instead of the accuser? In a reliable publication, the Saturday Evening Post, a reliable reporter, Jack Alexander, said 2½ years ago that McCarthy was taking Russian lessons. More than that, Alexander quoted McCarthy's friends as saying the reason for the Russian lessons was that the Senator hoped someday to sit down across from Stalin and charm him into peace and harmony, using Stalin's own tongue. Think what McCarthy, as accuser, could make out of that against McCarthy, the accused.

'Mums' Break Their 'Silence,' Reach Armory Out of Season

Mum was not the word for chrysanthemum at the National Guard Armory yesterday.

The spectacle of a favorite fall flower, blooming big as life on March 24, was one topic of much discussion at the National Flower and Garden Show.

More than 8000 persons, according to unofficial count, showed up for the second day of the twenty-sixth annual event. Attendance was at least doubled over opening day, which was marred by inclement weather.

The spring-blooming chrysanthemums were part of an exhibit by the United States Department of Agriculture, which may yet do for "mums" what it did for spuds.

Another feature of yesterday's program was a flower judging contest between three student-teams from 12 colleges and universities.

The University of Maryland team, coached by Dr. James B. Shanks, of the Department of Horticulture, won third place. Members were Gerard Moudry, Baltimore; James P. Gurney, Rockville, and William Preston, Bowie.

First place went to Oklahoma A&M. Ohio State University won second.

Contestants were required to judge 12 classes of cut flowers and 3 of potted plants. The outcome was based on their choice as compared with that previously made by the coaches.

Attendance at a display of several varieties of orchids was noticeably heavy, but innumerable kinds of roses seemed to be the major attraction.

Among them was the "Better Times" variety, said to be the first rose to earn for its developer more than a million dollars. Its name is attributed to the period it was first produced—during the depression.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney was hostess for the day, and Mrs. Tom Clark was scheduled to be hostess today.

the-record basis, to most of the press covering the story of McCarthy's charges. But, besides the obligation to abide by the off-the-record convention, there is the fact that since he was charged in a secret session, reporters cannot name him publicly with the privilege immunity from libel that they would have if he had been identified in a public Congressional session.

McCarthy has repeatedly stated that he is willing to stake his whole case on the validity of his grave charges against this man. He has said he will let all his accusations against about 115 people "stand or fall" on the outcome of this "key case."

Meantime, Tydings announced yesterday that McGrath and Hoover will testify before his subcommittee Monday afternoon "to give their views on matters before the committee." This means they will speak on the question of whether they will make available to the committee the FBI files on the other persons McCarthy has charged with pro-Communist activity.

It is known that their reply will be in the negative. Hoover is expected to refuse, and explain his reasons for refusing, to open his secret files to outside eyes.

He feels that to do otherwise would break faith with his informants and preclude the possibility of obtaining data in the future.

Yesterday, he and the Attorney General even refused to let Deputy Under Secretary of State John E. Peurifoy remain in the room when the files were shown to the Tydings Committee. Peurifoy had participated in earlier conversations with the group, but left the room before the files were disclosed.

The "complete analysis" of the files on the one man, the Attorney General said in a special statement, was given with the full knowledge of President Truman of the procedure. McGrath said the Senators were cautioned to keep what they saw and heard in "strictest confidence."

At the Capitol, there was a flurry of talk on the House floor about McCarthy's charges.

Representative Cox (D., Ga.) blasted at those who have criticized McCarthy, Cox said.

Blasting at those who have criticized McCarthy, Cox said:

"God help our country if public opinion permits the appeasers of Russia to crucify a man who has manifested the loyalty and decency to speak up for America."

Cox said that "the outrage that some are trying to manifest over being designated as friends of Communists is . . . completely phony."

He added: "I say that public opinion in the interest of the welfare of this country and the world ought to make its decision normally, and it ought to support Senator McCarthy in his honest endeavor to do an honest part to help the country that we love."

Representative Brown (R., Ohio) said the State Department concedes that some of its officials may have played "footsie with the fellow travelers" in the past, but contends "they have reformed."

Brown asked his colleagues: "Would you trust your money to a bank whose officials were reformed embezzlers?"

In the Senate, meantime, a Republican Senator came to the defense of Ambassador Philip C. Jessup. McCarthy has accused Jessup of an "unusual affinity for Communist causes."

Senator H. Alexander Smith (R., N. J.) told the Senate he "can see no possible ground for questioning Mr. Jessup's unimpeachable integrity or his complete loyalty and patriotic devotion to his country."

Smith, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the roving ambassador had made "a brilliant record" as United States representative to the United Nations Assembly.

He said he regretted that Jessup's name had been brought into the Senate investigation of McCarthy's charges that the State Department is a haven for Communists.

Jessup himself had denied McCarthy's charges in testifying before the Foreign Relations subcommittee making the investigation.

Tydings also announced yesterday that the committee has arranged public hearings next week to let two State Department officials reply to McCarthy's charges against them.

On Monday morning, in advance of the McGrath-Hoover session, the committee will hear Mrs. Esther Caulkin Brunauer.

Order to Bring Mrs. Knauff Here Defied

New York, March 24 (AP).—Immigration officials here today refused a House Judiciary Committee order to take Mrs. Ellen Knauff from Ellis Island to Washington Monday for a deportation hearing.

Mrs. Knauff, German wife of a former American soldier, has been held here by Immigration authorities since she sought to enter the United States in August, 1948. Her husband, Kurt W. Knauff, now is a civilian employe of the American Military Government in Frankfurt, Germany.

Commenting on the committee order, Edward J. Shaughnessy, district director of the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service here, said:

"I will not remove her from the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court without the consent of the court; and I will not make application for that consent."

mittee whose members and aides were sworn to secrecy.

The policemen were Lieut. Roy Blick, head of the police vice squad which has jurisdiction over sex offenses as well as gambling cases, and Sergt. James K. Hunter, acting head of the special investigations squad, which is assigned to keep track of subversive activities.

The police were reported to have told Hill's subcommittee they are ready to turn over all names reported to them of alleged perverts on Government jobs. Both the Park and Metropolitan Police are known to have extensive files of alleged perverts.

Recent testimony to a House District subcommittee investigating Washington crime conditions turned up testimony that persons charged with acts of perversion in parks and elsewhere are usually permitted to forfeit collateral in a police station rather than going to court.

After the Thursday meeting, Hill had called a meeting for yesterday, but this was canceled. The committee may resume its secret investigations Monday.

Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.), another member of the Hill Subcommittee who sat in on the Thursday hearing, had previously announced he wants to find out how many of the 91 homosexuals fired by the State Department in the past two years have landed jobs in other Government offices.

A special focus of the inquiry, it was said, is what the police files will point to about perverts holding jobs in any agencies connected with foreign policy and national defense.

letter by the late President Roosevelt. Mr. Roosevelt's letter paid tribute to Americans of Slav descent for their contribution to the war effort, Cvetic explained.

"By and large the American Slavs were loyal and patriotic?" asked Walter.

"Yes, they were."

Wood said the committee staff will make a diligent search for the file over the weekend.

The present schedule is for the committee to meet Wednesday to learn whether the file has turned up.

Late yesterday Chairman Woods issued the following statement:

"Since the adjournment of the testimony of Matthew Cvetic this afternoon, the committee has been in touch with Harry Sherman, an attorney of Pittsburgh, Pa., who had custody of the American-Slav Congress documents subpenaed by the committee.

"Mr. Sherman has advised that he inventoried the files turned over to the investigators of the Committee on Un-American Activities and that his inventory fails to reflect that any files designated as "Congressional" or "Senators and Congressmen" were turned over by him to the investigators.

"A full investigation will be made in an effort to determine the present location of the file. There has been no testimony by Mr. Cvetic relating to the files other than the fact it does not now appear with the record subpenaed by the committee.

"Mr. Sherman will be heard by the committee on this matter."

Arlington Revises Zone Ordinance

Semidetached zoning has been virtually eliminated from Arlington County's proposed master zoning plan, publication yesterday of the revised text of the zoning ordinance disclosed.

Strong objections to the semidetached structures were voiced at a recent informal hearing on the zoning ordinance and land map use, conducted by the County Board.

Following the hearing, the board voted to conduct one more formal hearing April 17, before final adoption of the zoning plan, already in preparation for over two years.

The latest proposed zoning map would eliminate most semidetached zoning in the Ballston, Cherrydale, Virginia Highlands and Courtland areas. Most of these areas are now proposed as R-5 (single family or duplex homes).

Other recent changes in the proposed ordinance would:

Change the few remaining areas where semidetached buildings would be permitted from R-2-6, requiring a 6000 square foot lot, to R-2-7, requiring a 7000 square foot lot.

Allow laundries only in CM (Commercial Manufacturing) areas, and not in C-2 (general commercial) districts.

Change the Lyon Village area north of Lee hwy. from apartment back to single family zoning.

Rep. Smith Boils Over Cookbook Call

Representative Howard W. Smith (D., Va.), complained yesterday that he has been forced into the mail order cookbook business.

He interrupted debate on the foreign aid bill to observe, "We ought to see what we're doing with our money . . . now take those cookbooks."

After The Washington Post first said Congress was going to give away cookbooks, he said, "Both of my telephones were clogged all day long. And now the mail is pouring in."

"They're even addressing letters to Howard W. Smith, Cookbook Department," he said.

If Congress is "throwing its money around" in this country by paying $75,000 for cookbooks, he added, it should take a close look at what it's spending overseas.

Nats Hit New Low in 13-3 Lacing by Phillies

Snead's 66 Tops Haefner By Stroke; Fazio Has 69

Greensboro, N. C., March 24 (AP).—Defending Champion Sammy Snead slammed a 33-33—66 today to lead the first round of the $10,000 Greensboro Open Golf tournament by a stroke.

Sammy, leading money winner last year and again to date this year, shaved two strokes from par on each nine of the 6720-yard Sedgefield Country Club Course's par 70 layout.

Snead, winner of this tournament three times in the 10 years it has previously been held, needed all his famed power off the tee to gain his slender advantage over Clayton Heafner of Charlotte.

The big blond Tar Heel, who once was a pro at this course, had the day's best nine-hole score, an outgoing 32, and he finished with nine pars for 67 and second place.

In third place, another stroke off the pace with 68, came Paul O'Leary, young Bismarck, N. Dak., professional. He, in turn, was one stroke ahead of four rivals, only others to better par.

The 69 group included Jack Burke, jr., White Plains, N. Y., the year's No. 2 money winner; Milon Marusic, Albany, N. Y.; Skip Alexander, North Carolinian now playing out of Knoxville, Tenn., and George Fazio, Washington.

Six others equaled par 70 Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif., did it the hard way, closing with a 33 after a shaky 37. With him in the tie were Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C.; Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va.; Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill.; Jimmy Clark, Huntington Beach Calif., and Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago making his first major tournament start since suffering a shoulder injury last November.

Snead never strayed over par, although he missed three of the first six greens. He scrambled back for his pars. He picked up birdies on the second, third, thirteenth and fourteenth holes.

On two he spanked a seven iron 5 feet from the pin; on three he dropped a 25-foot putt; on 13 he canned a 35-footer and on 14 a four iron stopped 7 feet from the cup.

Heafner birdied three of the first six holes, twice chipping in from the edge of the green. He finished with 12 pars.

Dick Button Wins U. S. Senior Title

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Dick Button, the "Old Pro" of amateur figure skating, won his fifth straight United States senior men's championship last night at Uline Arena.

Button's spectacular performance was the highlight of a great show, enthusiastically received by 4500 spectators.

Just before the 20-year-old Harvard sophomore took to the ice, Carol Peters and Daniel Ryan gave hometown partisans something to cheer about by winning the silver dance title for the Washington Figure Skating Club.

Other championships decided last night were junior pairs, won as expected by St. Paul's Janet Gerhauser and John Nightingale and junior ladies by Tenley Albright of Boston. Fourteen-year-old Miss Albright, a polio victim 3 years ago, took the novice ladies' crown last year.

The four-day affair will end today at Uline with the novice ladies, fours, novice men's, junior men's, gold dance, and senior ladies championships on the line.

Dick Adds 2 New Figures

Although few of the spectators knew the technical names of Button's difficult routines, they appreciated that he was doing everything better than his three challengers, and he added two figures which they wouldn't try under pressure—the double axle and the double lutz.

Button's total score was 1621.8. Trailing him were Hayes Allen Jenkins of Cleveland, 1561.5, 14-year old Dick Dwyer of Los Angeles, 1523.9, and G. Austin Holt, Berkeley, Calif., 1484.6.

Earlier in the afternoon, Donald Laws of Washington was a close second to Boston's Ronnie Richards at the halfway point in the men's junior competition, 641.3 to 643.9.

Richards nosed out the Gonzaga High graduate for the Eastern seniors title this year.

MEN'S JUNIORS SCHOOL FIGURES
(By ordinal ranking and scores)
1—Dudley Richards (Boston), 643.9.
2—Donald Laws (Washington, D. C.), 641.3.

Marciano Gives LaStarza First Licking

New York, March 24 (AP).—Rocky Marciano, unbeaten Brockton (Mass.) belter, blasted his way to the top ranks of the heavyweight division tonight by gaining a split decision over previously unconquered Roland La Starza of New York in a blazing 10-rounder in Madison Square Garden. Marciano weighed 183¼, La Starza 187.

The swarthy, 25-year-old New England socker won his twenty-seventh straight victory by the narrowest of margins.

After the judges had split, Referee Jack Watson cast the deciding ballot for Marciano. Watson gave each fighter five rounds but awarded the bout to Marciano on points, 9 to 6. Judge Arthur Aidala voted for La Starza, 5-4-1, and Judge Arthur Schwartz scored for Marciano, 5-4-1.

Rocky, a short-armed, slope-shouldered battler won the fight with a sensational punching display in the fourth round when he floored LaStarza for eight with a long overhand right to the head

Reds Score 7 In 8th, Rout Red Sox, 8-2

Sarasota, Fla., March 24 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds combined five hits and three bases on balls for seven runs in the eighth inning to break a 1-1 tie and gain an 8-2 decision over the Boston Red Sox before a 2092 crowd today at Payne Field.

Held to five hits over the first six innings by Lefty Mel Parnell, the Reds uncorked the big surprise against young Willard Nixon.

Ted Kluszewski started the rally with a single and then came through with another safety before the inning ended.

Tigers Give Yankees 3d Licking in Row

Lakeland, Fla., March 24 (AP).—Detroit ganged up to Clarence Marshall, New York righthander, for seven runs in the sixth inning today and walloped the Yankees, 10 to 6.

It was the Tigers' third straight victory and their fifth in a row against American League competition. It also was their third straight over the Yankees.

Four bases on balls were tossed in the sixth inning jam by Marshall.

Dick Kryhoski, now of the Tigers, hit a three-run double and Vic Wertz a two-run double in that round.

Joe DiMaggio made his first start since March 16, and walked with the bases full in the Yankees' three-run fifth against Virgil Trucks.

The Yankees scored three runs in the fifth on singles by Phil Rizzuto, George Stirnweiss and Billy Johnson and picked up two more in the eighth on Hank Workman's triple, a double by Joe Collins and Charlie Silvera's single.

The Tigers came up with their third double play to erase Billy Johnson who opened the ninth with a single and thus stop a budding New York rally.

Poughkeepsie Regatta Shifted To Marietta, Ohio

New York, March 24 (AP).—The historic Poughkeepsie Regatta, top collegiate rowing event in America since the 1890's, became the Marietta Regatta today.

The board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association decided to abandon the traditional Hudson River course and hold the 1950 championship 3-mile test on the Ohio River at Marietta, Ohio, June 17.

Indications were that a return to Poughkeepsie in the future is unlikely. The principal factors which led to the change, the stewards' announcement said, were the absence of tides and currents on the Ohio River and the availability of an observation train.

Navy's Wayne Smith Gains Semifinals

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, March 24. Wayne Smith of the Naval Academy gained the semifinal round of the NCAA wrestling tournament here tonight. Smith defeated Paul Riggins of Illinois in the second round by an 18-10 score and won 10-0, from Alan Rice, Minnesota, in the quarter-finals.

Bradley, Baylor Win; Meet in Finals

Kansas City, March, 24 (AP).—Bradley wiped out a seven-point deficit in the late minutes here tonight to defeat UCLA, 73-59, and gained the finals of the Western NCAA basketball playoffs.

Bradley now meets Baylor in the final game tomorrow night to determine the foe of the Eastern champion. Baylor made the finals by slipping by Brigham Young, 56-55, on Don Heathington's free toss in the closing seconds of the first game.

Bradley and UCLA were tied at halftime, 33-33. UCLA took charge of things as the second half opened, building their lead to seven points, before Bradley began rolling in the last period.

Scarborough Gets Lumps; Ailing Meyer Tames Griffs

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Orlando, Fla., March 24—The Nats were saved from a 13-1 defeat today. Eventually, they took a 13-3 beating from the Phils with a ninth-inning rally that fell 10 runs short. It was the sorriest exhibition of their sour Grapefruit League record.

Ray Scarborough, the supposed solid man of the Washington pitching staff, was almost knocked loose from his moorings by the Phils who conked him for six runs in the very first, or initial, inning.

Scarborough, together with Rookie Lloyd Hittle pitched 16-hit ball for the Nats and into the record went the Nats' sixth defeat in nine games with major league clubs in Florida.

"Injured" Meyer Invincible

The futility of the Nats' pitching was almost exceeded by the mildness of their hitting. Going into the eighth inning, they owned only two hits off Russ Meyer and Ed Wright, a rookie righthander from Toronto.

Meyer, who was in Johns Hopkins Hospital a week ago on suspicion that he had a fractured pitching elbow, gave no evidence of the same in his five-inning stint against the Nats. He held 'em hitless in four innings, and yielded only one run.

The Nats were specializing in extra-base hits, not enough of those, however, and precious little else. Five of their six blows were for extra bases. Eddie Robinson drove in their first run with a triple off the right field wall in the fourth inning, and Stewart produced their other two.

Stewart's contribution was a line drive homer over the right field wall after Robinson opened the ninth with a single that raised his Grapefruit League batting average to a fancy .408 figure.

Scarborough called the turn on his own ineffectiveness, before he took the mound. "I'm in for a bad day," he predicted, and he was correct. The Nats' No. 1 pitcher was complaining of a stiff back, but added, "I always come up with something like this in the spring and work it out in about 10 days."

He couldn't get any of the first three hitters out, loading the bases on a walk to Ashburn and singles by Hamner and Watkins. Ennis' fly produced one run. Sisler got the first of his four singles for the second run. Jones singled, two more men walked, and Whitman drove in runs No. 5 and 6 with a single to center.

Nats Beaten Before They Start

Thus, the Nats were out of the ball game before they got their first licks at bat, by the time the Phils were finished with three-run uprisings against Hittle in the seventh and eighth, the Nats were trailing, 13-1, and Tinker Field fans were leaving the place in droves.

IN SHORT . . . Bobo Newsom is rapidly becoming disenchanted with his possibilities of catching on with a major league club, and now is being stared in the face by a Chattanooga uniform . . . He may even pitch for Chattanooga against the Nats on Sunday . . . That stylish stout gentleman who was mingling with the players before the game was the once-frail Lefty Gomez, now prospering as a Wilson Sporting Goods Co. salesman

Anderson Tops Tri-City; Wins Series

Anderson, Ind., March 24 (AP).—The Anderson Packers won the Series B playoff in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association with an easy 94-71 victory over Tri-Cities tonight. The Packers took the series, two games to one.

Dike Eddelman kept the Tri-Cities Blackhawks in the game in the first quarter, getting six field goals, and finished high for the game with 23 points. Jack Nichols, usually the Blackhawks' leading scorer, was held to two field goals by Bill Closs and Charley Black.

City College 4-Point Choice Over N. C. State in NCAA Final

New York, March 24 (AP).—It will be City College of New York's towering height against North Carolina State's blistering speed tomorrow night in the finals of the Eastern NCAA basketball playoffs.

The CCNY Beavers, seeking to become the first team to win the two big national tournaments in a single season, have been installed a four-point favorite despite the Wolfpack's record-smashing performance in the opening game.

The finals at Madison Square Garden, an 18,000 sellout for weeks, will determine an Eastern champion to meet the Western titlist for the NCAA championship here March 28.

City college's tall, basket-bopping sophomores are a natural favorite until somebody cools them off. In the last two weeks the Beavers have bowled over the three top-ranking college teams in the country, No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, and Kentucky, No. 3, in winning the National Invitation title last week

Last night they added Ohio State's Big Ten champions, second in the national rankings, to their growing collection

Coach Everett Case of N. C. State, elated over the Wolfpack's impressive triumph, 87-74 over Holy Cross, said he believes his boys can win "if they keep up the pace."

3 Girl Swimmers Each Win Twice

Nancy Ladd and Wanda Werner of Ambassador and Elizabeth Kirschner of Campus School were double gold cup winners in the first annual Junior Girls Swimming Association meet at American University.

Though there were no team trophies, Ambassador swimmers won eight events, Takoma six and Campus School four.

He's a 'Natural' Athlete

Button Could Excel in Any Sport

It's true, Skating Champion Dick Button is too big for his britches.

When the Englewood, N. J., lad enrolled in the R. O. T. C. at Harvard a year ago, they had to order a special pair of trousers for him. His leg muscles were so well developed from his five years of figure skating they wouldn't fit in the regulation uniforms.

Button would be some shucks in other sports, if he didn't love skating so much. He's just naturally a great athlete.

At Englewood, N. J., Prep, he was a star end on the football team until he grew up to 175 pounds. Then they shifted him to tackle and he was mentioned on the All-State scholastic team.

He also dabbled in baseball, but gave up basketball because that season conflicted with his skating season. Dick's dad, by the way, was a pro basketball player for Hartford in the old Eastern League.

Lately Dick has taken up golf and tennis, and he's done remarkably well. His first game of golf was played here in the 1948 National Celebrities tournament. Although he gets to play only about once a month he now shoots in the high 80's and low 90's.

Two United States and three world championship victories have enabled him to travel all over the Americas and Europe. In Stockholm, 30,000 people turned out to see him take the European crown a year ago. His most exciting foreign experience occurred during the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia. A special U. S. Army plane was sent

One Man's Opinion

Modest Rosar Calls Himself Best American League Catcher

Sarasota, Fla., March 24 (U.P.).—Peppery Buddy Rosar said today 'it may be only one man's opinion but I think I'm the best catcher in the American League" and added that he was out to prove that fact to his new teammates, the Boston Red Sox.

That was pretty strong talk comfrom a fellow who batted only .200 in 32 games for the Philadelphia Athletics last season, but he shrugged that off by saying, "this spring I am in the best physical condition of any of the 12 years that I have been in the big leagues."

"Ok, so I had a bad season and was banged up a little," he said. This year I believe I'll be even better than I was when I set an all-time defensive record for big league catchers back in 1946 and 1947.

"Look at these hands,' he said, extending a pair of ham-like mitts. "Know any catcher who has bigger, stronger ones? Watch me during a game. Do you ever see me drop more than four or five pitches even if I am working with a knuckle ball pitcher? Look at almost anybody else and see if they don't drop 15 or 20. Well, that's pretty important when you have men on the bases."

Rosar, a 35-year-old citizen from Buffalo, N. Y., said "all the great catchers—Bill Dickey, Mickey Cochrane, Gabby Hartnett, or anybody else you can name—didn't do a job like I did."

Gasmen Gain Semifinals

Washington Gas Light Co. whipped Merrick Boys Club, 44-30, last night in D. C. Recreation League competition at Central High. The victory put the winners in Monday's semifinal round. Jeff Williams and Joe Shearer paced the victors with 16 and 14 points.

Flood Avoided, Laurel Opens Maryland Racing Season Today

At Charles Town

Rough Ordy Posts Third Win of Meet

Charles Town, W. Va., March 24 —J. T. Gibson's Rough Ordy, an old mare who seems to improve with age, turned in her third victory of the meeting that closed with today's program.

The daughter of Swashbuckler took command at the break and simply outran her opposition, finishing two and one-half lengths in front of Mrs. J. D. S. Coleman's Certified, half of the Trainer S. M. Simpson entry. Third money went to E. L. Morsberger's Minaddie, the favorite in the field of seven.

Despite her record, Rough Ordy returned a $5 win mutuel.

Charles Town will be dark until April 8 when it opens for its second 19-day meeting.

A disqualification marked the third event. L. B. Bosley's Pharawatch was first home in a photo-finish, but swerved in the stretch, crowding other horses. The stewards took down the number and placed Pharawatch fourth. In the new line-up Fitzgerald and Cohen's Golden Buckle was the winner, with W. I. Jones' Double Thistle second and Mrs. M. Gheen's Jet Job third.

J. R. Hill, whose mount Jet Job was squeezed back, made the foul claim against Jimmy McDermott, who rode Pharawatch. McDermott was held blameless, the stewards reporting that the 3-year-old lugged in.

Golden Buckle paid $10.80. The time for the 6½ furlongs was 1:24.

Capitol'Cap Wide Open; 13 Entered

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Laurel's race course, a threat of flood avoided, promises to be shipshape and ready for today's opening program.

At 2 p. m., or as close to that hour as Starter Eddie Blind can align a field of maiden 2-year-olds, the familiar "They're off" will ring forth and Maryland's 1950 turf campaign will be under way.

Topped by the $7500 added Capitol Handicap, for 32 years the inaugural feature, the Laurel offer a better-than-average first-day program. Upward of 15,000 fans are expected to welcome the bangtails to the Free State.

For the first time since it first became a turf center in 1911, Laurel stages a spring meeting, taking over the position on the State's racing calendar usually occupied by Bowie.

Midweek torrential rains all over the State sent the Patuxent River over its banks and for a while threatened to deal a serious setback to the season's opening. However, pumps installed when the present management took over kept the track from absorbing the overflow. The water which covered parts of the roadways was receding last night.

The Capitol Handicap, a sprint of 6 furlongs, drew an overnight field of 13 and on paper appears to be a wide-open affair. H. H. Hecht's Otter Brook, in rather light with 110 pounds, may be the favorite, although D. K. Kerr, jr.'s, Flying Weather, and R. S. Carter's Oriole, each carrying 122 pounds, are popular with Maryland fans and will draw concerted play.

The aforementioned trio will have to be primed because of fleetness of the field includes such as Golden Bull, Rare Mineral, Kinsman, Little Harp, Vital Sun, Play Toy, Magnet, Risk A While, Fritz Maisel and Please Do. Fritz Maisel is the lightweight of the company, with 108 pounds.

Last year's Capitol was won by Mrs. O. L. Nyberg's Irisen. In the past, history-making horses have accounted for the main money in the sprint. Billy Kelly, under Earl Sande's guidance, was the victor in 1919 and the famous horse also scored in 1921. Osmand (1927), Jamestown (1933), Wise Counsellor (1925), and Sation (1934 and 1935) are some of the other Capitol winners.

As usual, the daily double will be on the first and second races, with windows closing at 1:45 p. m., 15 minutes before post time.

Braves End Slump, Slam Cards, 11-1

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 24 (AP).—The Boston Braves snapped a nine-game losing streak with a bang today as they handed the St. Louis Cards an 11 to 1 shellacking.

The Hub City crew ponded three Redbird flingers for 16 base knocks, including a grand slam homer by Bob Elliott and a three-run double by Sid Gordon. Gordon also tripled home a run.

It was the Cards' third straight reverse and their sixth in 12 citrus belt engagements.

Brawner Sets NCAA Swim Mark

Columbus, Ohio, March 24 (AP).—A 19-year-old Princeton sophomore who was a freestyle swimmer until two years ago set an NCAA meet record tonight in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Robert Brawner splashed the distance in 2 minutes 14.3 seconds, four-tenths of a second below the old National Collegiate Athletic Association meet mark.

Ohio State ended the second day of the NCAA meet with 31 points, eight ahead of the field as it sought to retain its championship. Yale was in second place with 23 points.

Rinty Monaghan Gives Up Title

Belfast, Northern Ireland, March 24 (AP).—Rinty Monaghan, world's flyweight boxing champion, announced today that he is giving up his title because of poor health.

"Bronchial trouble has demanded that I hang up my gloves," said Rinty who is 29.

Skating Champ Dick Button Would Star in Any Other Sport

to Prague to carry the skating star out of danger.

He has no desire to turn professional. At 20, he's at the peak of his skating career, and he figures he'll be topflight for another four years.

It's a fact that amateur skaters are considered over the hill when they reach 24.

When he starts skidding, Dick says he'll put his political theory course at Harvard to good use, probably in work overseas for the Government.

NOTES — Among the distinguished guests at the skating show are AAU chief Avery Brundage and Mrs. Theresa Blanchard, who won the first United States senior ladies' championship back in 1914. Mrs. Blanchard hasn't missed a national skating event since then, and now edits the official United States figure skating magazine, circulation 8500 . . . All contestants, 18 years old and under, had to present certificates from their schools showing they are maintaining better than "C" grades and are not truants . . . Figure skaters are probably the most carefully judged athletes in existence. In their school figures alone, they receive a total of 35 different scores from the five judges, who dressed in fur collared coats and heavy boots, put their noses to the ice to examine skate marks.

No wonder it takes 24 certified public accountants and a chief auditor more than an hour to tabulate and post the final scores.—HERB HEFT.

Grand National Goes Today

Aintree, England, March 24 (U.P.) The National Equine Defense League pleaded with King George tonight to withdraw the royal family's Monaveen from the Grand National, but all indications were Monaveen will go to the post a sentimental favorite in tomorrow's running of the world's toughest horse race.

The league asked King George to withdraw the horse for safety reasons. Secretary said there are enough risks now in the harrowing steeplechase without forcing the other 48 steds to steer clear of the royal mount in a turf version of protocol.

However, the league seemed alone in its desire to keep Monaveen from running. In the final "call over" at the Victoria Club, headquarters of Britain's big bookmakers, Mrs. L. Brotherton's Freebooter was the expected favorite at 8 to 1 and Monaveen was next at 9 to 1.

The race will be run at 10:15 a. m. EST.

Shagreen and Roimond were 100 to 7, Cromwell and Castledermot 18 to 1, the 1949 winner, Russian Hero, was 22 to 1.

St. Teresa's Wins, Gains CYO Finals

St. Teresa's and St. Dominic's won their way into the finals of the Gonzaga Invitational basketball tournament with victories yesterday at Gonzaga.

St. Teresa's defeated St. Michael's, 30-27, and St. Dominic's won over St. Martin's, 36-14. Buddy Shannon of St. Dominic's was the day's high scorer with 16 points.

The two victors clash for the championship at 1:30 this afternoon at Gonzaga.

Safford, Fireman In Recreation Fnials

Safford-Chandler and the D. C. Fire Department fought their way to the final round of the D. C. Recreation Department basketball tournament with victories last night at Roosevelt High.

Safford Chandler defeated the FBI Ramblers, 54-39, Bethesda Merchants, led by Fred Geneau's 22 points, defeated the Fire Department, 58-43.

At Laurel

Dear Folks:

When you drive to the races don't let the old car head for Bowie instead of Laurel. I still say that a number of fans are going to show up at Bowie, despite all the publicity. But its only 8 miles between the two tracks on the back road. Alan Clarke, who likes to name his horses for friends, has honored Senator Joseph McCarthy. A 2-year-old son of Alaking and Bola Mowlee has been named Senator Joe. Clarke pinned the tag Walter Haight on one of his colts. Despite the name, the horse earned his way and probably set a record by winning at least once on each of the Maryland mile and half-mile tracks as well as at Charles Town. See you on the rail at Laurel. Bill.

Randall Pulls Out of Bout

Roland Randall was forced to withdraw last night from his scheduled 10-round feature bout with Julian Keene, his hometown rival, at Turner's Arena next Monday night because of an injured hand.

He damaged several knuckles on his right hand last Monday.

His hand became worse yesterday and a doctor ordered him to quit working out, and Randall then decided not to continue with the bout.

Menendez said he is seeking to replace Randall with one of three fighters—Chubby Wright of Reading, Pa., Sipion Lofton of New York, or Jimmy Lee of Englewood, N. J.

Foxcatchers Plate Feature Of Potomac Hunter Trials

By Harry De Mawby, Jr.

The Potomac Hunt, having wound up a successful season of good fox-chasing, will hold their annual Hunter Trials today at the hunt kennels near Potomac, Md., starting at 10:30 a. m.

The Foxcatchers Plate is the stellar attraction of the program.

Potomac's members and those of surrounding hunts are expected to turn out in full force to exhibit in the numerous events designed to test the development and experience of horses that have been following the hounds for the past five months.

The Junior Plate event will start the day's program and is open to riders who have not yet attained their nineteenth birthday and has hunted his entry with a recognized event during the last season.

The Travilah Plate is next and limited to horses having just completed their first and only season of hunting since October, 1949.

Following is the Handy, a test of performing tasks frequently called for in the hunting field, the Elinor Wheeler Exnicious Trophy event for members of the Potomac Hunt only, and the Master's Plate class, open to all members or subscribers of recognized hunts.

Ladies' hunters, the Montgomery County Plate for pairs of hunters, and the Potomac Plate event for teams of three round out a full day for the stars of the hunting field, with the Gracias Trophy, donated by Captain and Mrs. Steadman Teller, going to the horse with the greatest number of points for the title of "trial champion."

Princeton Leads In Fencing

Detroit, March 24 (AP).—Princeton's fencing team took a slim lead today as Eastern squads dominated the first half of the two-day NCAA fencing tournament at Wayne University.

Princeton, with 36½ points, was just half a point up on Rutgers.

New York University was third with 34 points, and Navy and Penn tied for fourth with 32½ each.

Barrett Wins Praise For Rowdyism Curb

Police Chief Robert J. Barrett was commended last night by the Federation of Civic Associations for his efforts towards stamping out rowdyism in and around Negro schools.

Last month Barrett set up a special headquarters detail assigned to answer complaints from school officials.

A letter from Garnet C. Wilkerson, assistant superintendent of schools, read at last night's federation meeting in the board room of the District Building, reported a "decided improvement" in conditions at Negro schools since the squad went into action.

Barrett's action came after last month's federation meeting at which a special committee reported cases of drinking, gambling, robberies and other molestation around the schools.

The police chief revealed that he had assigned four Negro policemen, under Lieut. John F. Ryan, head of the Juvenile Bureau, to work on the reports.

After a conference with officials of nine schools, Barrett said, the officers found that a number of youths were playing hookey from their own schools and causing trouble at other schools.

"They broke it up," Barrett continued, "and I want to commend those four men and Lieutenant Ryan for the job they did."

The federation asked that detail be kept going for the remainder of the school year and that Lieut. Ryan be assigned to attend the next meeting to bring the federation up to date.

In another resolution, the federation attacked two pending House of Representatives bills which would permit the District Commissioners to appoint a retiring policeman to the Boxing Commissions and would permit the retired officer to collect Commission and retirement pay.

Inspector Clarence Talley, the incumbent police member of the Boxing Commission, is due to retire from the force soon. The Federation also asked the District Commissioners to replace Talley with another member of the force.

Federation President Woolsey Hall termed the pending House bills as "a preposterous pay grab."

Campaign Indorsed

The Federation indorsed a recently-initiated campaign by the Pittsburgh Courier to get Negro white collar workers hired by public service organizations such as the electric, gas, telephone and transit companies.

The group authorized letters of appreciation to be sent to The Washington Post, members of the Board of Education, Local 27, Teachers Union (AFL), the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and 12 clergymen of the Washington Federation of Churches for support in the drive to transfer Central High School facilities to Negro use.

Third Survives

Jilted, She Drowns Her 2 Children

Winston-Salem, N. C., March 24 (U.P.).—A mother who said she walked hand-in-hand into a creek with her three youngest children "until I thought they were dead" will be charaged with murder, authorities said today.

Two of Mrs. David Debusk's children, aged 6 months and 2 years, were drowned. Another is in serious condition from exposure.

Sheriff Ernie Shore said Mrs. Debusy appeared at a nearby farmhouse dripping with muddy creek water and carrying her 4-year-old daughter, Ruby Lee. Later the bodies of the baby, Iva Lee, and Mrs. Debusk's boy, Charles, were found on the edge of the creek bank.

"We took our coats off and laid them on the bank," authorities quoted her as saying. "I told the older ones to hold hands and not let go. I carried the baby and held Charlie's hand. We just walked in. We walked under the water and we held hands until I thought they were dead."

Shore said Mrs. Debusk told him she had decided to "end it all" after "going with" a married man "seven or eight years."

"He's a home breaker," she said. "He busted up my home and then threw me aside."

When she believed the children were dead, she walked out and laid them on the bank, authorities said. Ruby Lee whimpered and "I didn't have the heart to throw her back in," they quoted her.

"I was going back there to drown myself but I just had to try to save her."

Model Airplane Meet Scheduled on Sunday

A model airplane meet will be held Sunday at 10 a. m. at the Potomac School, northwest of Chevy Chase, under sponsorship of the newly formed Riverdale Model Club. The contest, open to all persons interested in model aviation, covers all classes of free-flight gas-powered and rubber-powered planes and towline and hand-launched gliders.

Democratic Breakfast

Representative Wayne N. Aspinwall (D., Colo.) and Robert McCullough, Democratic candidate for Congress in Maryland, will be guest speakers at a breakfast of the Democratic Club of the District at 11 a. m. Sunday. The breakfast will be at the Women's National Democratic Club, 1526 New Hampshire ave. nw.

Vacation Lots

10 Residents Win Florida Property

Ten Washington area residents were lucky "winners" of building lots up to two acres on tropical Florida Key in a drawing held by the Department of the Interior, it was announced yesterday.

The 10, all veterans, were among 45 winners over the country among 1670 applicants.

The lots, on Sugar Loaf Key, an island about 17 miles northeast of Key West, were classified for lease and sale by the Government under the Small Tract Act of 1938.

Several winners in Washington said last night they intend to put up cabins for vacations.

The drawing took place March 17.

The winners will receive leases to the lots for $5 a year each, from one to five years. With the leases go options to buy, providing the lessees make adequate improvements on the lots in the meantime. The sale prices range from $25 to $170 per lot.

Oscar Chapman, Secretary of Interior, also announced the $10 fees received from the unsuccessful applicants will be returned to them.

The Washington area winners are: Luther Waring, 2801 Georgia ave. nw.; Sanford P. Rogers, 3120 Massachusetts ave. se.; Arthur B. White, 4314 N. Pershing dr., Arlington; James L. Bethea, 814 Massachusetts ave. ne.; Dorris C. Daniel, 124 S. Park dr., Arlington; Allison C. Folsom, jr., 822 S. Arlington Mill dr., Arlington; Norvelle H. Sannebeck, 404 Jefferson st., Alexandria; James E. Bailey, 5 Brandywine st. se.; Edward Fisher, 3133 Connecticut ave. nw., and Bernard Galpeer, 602 Powhatan pl. nw.

perintendent of Gallinger, said yesterday that Kinard's records have been forwarded to the District Commissioners for their action.

He also said Henry S. Gavens, Health Department Administrative officer, and his assistant, Miss Gertrude Laprade, spent the day at the hospital going over records to determine how a better system of keeping records up-to-date might be set-up there.

Gavens said he will continue his investigation Monday and will then make a report to Health Officer Dr. Daniel L. Seckinger. He described Gallinger's methods of keeping records as "fundamentally all right," but said he will make some recommendations for changes.

to "Anglo-Russian solidarity."

Last April a Cambridge, Mass., school committee denied permission for him to speak in the school auditorium on the grounds he was "pro-Communist, anti-Catholic and antireligious." A Labor Party spokesman replied "there is no grain of truth" in these charges.

Denied Anti-Catholicism

Previously, Laski had been accused of anti-Catholicism because of his attacks on Generalissimo Franco in Spain. He emphatically denied this charge, saying his life had been devoted to tolerance.

Laski was born in Manchester, a member of a Jewish family that had come to England from Russia several generations before. He was educated at Oxford.

Survivors include his widow and daughter.

Laski Interpreted U. S. And Britain to Each Other

Harold Laski was much more than an intellectual leader of British socialism; he also made himself an interpreter of Socialist Britain to the United States and of the United States to Britain.

His reputation in this country was higher than in his own. Thousands of Americans had listened to his lectures at the London School of Economics or at Harvard and other universities here.

Hundreds of others knew him personally, for Laski made it a point to cultivate American authors, newspapermen, Government officials, lawyers and scholars who happened to be in London.

He corresponded regularly over a long period of years with Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, and he had lasting friendships with many others in this country, whether or not they agreed with all his political views.

In the reverse direction, he was a powerful force in helping the British people to understand President Roosevelt and the New Deal. Among British scholars he was almost unrivaled in his knowledge of American history, and especially of American constitutional processes.

At least two of his books, especially "The American Presidency," were in the tradition set by Bryce's "American Commonwealth," even though many of Laski's writing on America were attacked as a picture distorted by Socialist spectacles.

Efficiency Check-Up Of Personnel Offices Planned by House Unit

Personnel and budget offices throughout Government will be investigated to determine how many of them do a good management job.

A House Civil Service Subcommittee headed by Representative Williams (D., Miss.) will make the inquiry. The Williams group was set up to look into overstaffing in Federal offices. It will have competition from the Budget Bureau which has been directed by the House Appropriations Committee to make an overstaffing study.

STORY: An applicant for a job at the Munitions Board received this clever acknowledgment:

Dear Miss: A vacancy exists on my staff,
Indicated needs call for a better half,
Coordinated thinking suggests that you
On preliminary consideration, will do.
Attached herewith please find Form 57
Kindly accomplish in copies 11.
State experience and qualifications,
Give five references, not blood relations.
Plans are basically in formative stage,
Finalized action should not take an age.
An empire I do not wish to create,
But I'd like a small staff, say seven or eight.
Concurrence is needed of tentative plan
Advise informally as soon as you can.
Off record, you appear favored o'er the rest,
Do you think you can pass the loyalty test?
(Signed) GOBEL D. GUKE.

SUPPORT: The personnel recommendations of the Hoover Commission were supported in principle yesterday by two important groups, the National Civil Service League and the American Veterans Committee. In contrast, the representatives of three AFL unions opposed many of the suggested personnel reforms at a hearing conducted by Senator Long (D., La.) of a Civil Service Subcommittee. James Watson spoke for the league and James A. Clorety for the AmVets.

GPO: A rider to the omnibus appropriation bill now before the House will remove any doubt over wages paid employes in the office of the superintendent of documents. The rider would allow employes in this office to be paid night, overtime, Sunday and holiday rates as employes of the Government Printing Office. This is the present practice but the Comptroller General has threatened to knock it out.

JOBS: The National Institutes of Health at Bethesda, has exams open for: glassblower, $2450 to $3825, and biologists and physiologists, $6400 to $10,000 . . . An exam for mail handler, $1.26½ an hour, to fill vacancies in the Postoffice here is to be given by Civil Service. Thousands of applicants are expected. Get further details at Civil Service . . . An exam also is open for engineering aide, $2200 to $3825, to fill openings in Maryland, Virginia, and other nearby States . . . An exam for leadingman set construction, $2.05 an hour, for openings at the Anacostia Naval Air Station . . . The Bureau of Prisons has an exam open for instructors, $3100 to $3450, to fill jobs at the National Training School for Boys here and other institutions . . . At Fort Belvoir, Va., tests are open for hospital equipment repairman, $1.47 an hour, and engine test mechanic, $1.64.

Civil Service also has tests open for cotton scientific aid, $2450 to $3100. Also, a dozen different exams in the field of communications, jobs that range in pay from $2450 to $6400. Please get further details at Civil Service.

AWARD: Ismar Baruch will be given the Stockberger Award for outstanding work in the Civil Service field. He deserves it. He's the big reason why Congress approved the Pay Reclassification Act last September. The Civil Service classification chief will be given the award at a dinner meeting Monday of the Society for Personnel Administration to be held in the South Agriculture Cafeteria at 6:15 p. m.

BLOSSOM PRINCESS ARRIVES—Sitting on her suitcase at National Airport is Elizabeth Mitchell of Welch, W. Va., who arrived yesterday. She will represent her home State in the Cherry Blossom Festival, March 31-April 1

As of February 15

Food Prices Drop 4.4 Pct. In District

Average retail prices of food in Washington dropped 4.4 percent in the three months ending February 15, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

With prices of services slightly up or unchanged, the BLS average for all goods and services bought by moderate income families here was down 1.6 percent that period.

Modest Decline Recorded

The BLS also registered a modest decline in the cost of living index for the Nation's larger cities, amounting to two tenths of 1 percent between mid-January and mid-February.

The index for Washington prices last month, while 63.6 percent higher than the 1935-39 average, was at the lowest level since February 1948. It was 22.3 percent higher than in June, 1946, and 66 percent above the August, 1939, level.

Eggs and Fruit Down

Most important in the lower food costs here was the decline between January and February in the price of eggs—6.5 percent—and fruits and vegetables, which averaged 3.8 percent lower. Lard was down 4 percent.

Meats, poultry and fish prices averaged 2.3 percent higher for the month, the BLS reported, with the largest price increases for chickens, up nearly 13 percent.

Fuel, electricity and refrigeration prices, as a whole, rose 1.3 percent during the quarter ended February 15, which included a gas rate increase for the District.

D. C. Church Gets $166,000 From Woman

An 86-year-old widow, who died here March 9, left an estate of approximately $166,000 to the Church of the Epiphany, 1317 G st. nw., a petition for probate of her will revealed yesterday.

The estate was left by Mrs. Louise Mitchell Holmead, who had been a resident of the Epiphany Church Home, 1221 Massachusetts ave. nw., for the past 18 years.

The petition, filed in District Court by the Washington Loan and Trust Co., as executor, declared she left $132,155 in bonds, $28,044 in stocks and $8804 in cash.

Her will, dated October 1, 1947, left $1500 to Dr. W. Sinclair Bowen, 2745 29th st. nw., her physician, provided that all funeral expenses be taken out of the bulk of the estate and that the remainer go to "The Rector, Wardens and Vestry of the Church of the Epiphany."

A spokesman at the Epiphany Church Home said Mrs. Holmead was a native of Washington, and had lived here most of her life. She was married at one time to Dr. Albert Bauman, a physician, who died, and later to Alfred Holmead, a State Department employe, the spokesman said. She left no immediate survivors, it was learned.

Hearings on Judges' Nominations Set

Senate Judiciary Subcommittee hearings on three District Federal court nominees will begin at 10:30 a. m. April 1.

The nominees are Judges Charles Fahy and George T. Washington, serving on the United States Court of Appeals here, and Judge Burnita S. Matthews, serving in District Court.

They are serving under recess appointments made last fall.

600 Teachers Attend 2-Day Institute Here

Detroit Educator Addresses Parochial School Gathering

Parochial school students of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Washington were given a holiday yesterday to permit their teachers to attend the second annual archdiocesan teachers' institute.

About 600 teachers attended the opening session of the two-day program at Holy Name School, West Virginia ave. and Neal st. ne.

Detroit Superintendent

Speakers included the Right Rev. Msgr. Carroll F. Deady, superintendent of schools for the archdiocese of Detroit, and the Right Rev. Msgr. John K. Cartwright, rector of St. Matthew's Cathedral.

Msgr. Deady spoke on "Do's and Don't of Discipline," and Msgr. Cartwright on "The Reason Why of Music Appreciation."

Today's program will open at 9:30 a. m. with an address by the Rev. William E. McManus, assistant director of the Department of Education, National Catholic Welfare Conference, on "Awareness of Parental Rights."

"Helping the Student"

The Rev. William F. Graham, S.J., headmaster at Gonzaga High School, will discuss "Helping the Student to Choose a Future."

At the afternoon session, 2:30 p. m., the Rev. Philip M. Hannan, vice chancellor of the Washington archdiocese, will speak on "Nurturing Vocations."

The Rev. John Tracy Ellis, professor of American church history at Catholic University, will close the conference with a talk on "Bringing the Past to Life."

71% of Goal Is Reported By Red Cross

The District Red Cross 1950 campaign reached 71.01 percent of its $1,039,000 goal yesterday.

A total of 177,491 gifts for $737,819.54 has been received.

Chairman Daniel W. Bell told workers yesterday, "We'll have to work hard on the next two report days. Let's do all we can to put the drive over the top by Friday, March 31."

Randolph G. Bishop, director of the campaign, expressed himself as "encouraged," but warned the campaign is still 24,000 gifts behind the number contributed at the same time last year.

Frank Pace, director of the Budget Bureau, told those at the report luncheon in the United States Chamber of Commerce building that there are "many areas where Red Cross reduces demands made upon the Federal Government."

The next report meeting will be Tuesday, "public relations day." Speaker will be Mrs. Ruth McCormick Miller, vice president of the Washington Times-Herald.

Meanwhile, at campaign headquarters, officials announced that representatives from Washington clubs and organizations, and from embassies and legations, are staffing more than 50 Red Cross booths which opened yesterday in banks, department stores, restaurants and hotels.

The booths, a traditional feature of Red Cross campaigns during the last week in March, are open to accommodate visitors in the city. Mrs. Morris Cafritz is chairman of the Red Cross booths and diplomatic committee.

Auto Crash Kills Bride Of 6 Weeks

Rockville Woman's Car Strikes Tree; Becomes 17th Traffic Fatality of Year

District traffic deaths this year 17
Deaths same date last year....18
Total traffic deaths 1949.....71

A bride of six weeks died at Emergency Hospital yesterday of injuries suffered early Thursday when her auto went out of control and struck a tree.

The victim was Mrs. Emily McGonagle Graves, 30, wife of E. Charlton Graves of Route 4, Rockville.

Police said Mrs. Graves was returning home from a visit with friends, driving alone in the rain. At Wisconsin ave. and Ordway st. nw., they said, the auto struck a streetcar loading platform, went out of control, and rammed into a tree.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of accidental death.

Mrs. Graves was taken to Emergency Hospital suffering a fractured skull, compound fracture of the left leg, fractured right leg, and internal injuries. She died at 7:33 a. m., yesterday.

Mrs. Graves was married on February 4. She formerly was with the State Department, serving in China for two years up to 1946, her husband said. Recently, she had been a secretary for a Washington attorney.

A native of Belmont, Mass., she had lived in Washington for six years. She attended a business college in Boston. Besides her husband, she is survived by five stepchildren, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. McGonagle of Belmont, Mass., and a brother, William McGonagle of Washington.

Stofberg Uses D.C. Car for Night Tasks

The District provides a car for Commissioner John Russell Young's assistant, Charles Stofberg, which he may drive each night to his home 22 miles away, it was learned yesterday.

Minutes of a meeting of the Commissioners three weeks ago showed they assigned a District-owned car to Stofberg for "use in answering calls to multiple alarm fires" and to perform other duties for the Commissioners.

Their order stated that Stofberg could keep the car at his home in Edgewater, Md.—near Annapolis.

Stofberg said yesterday he has had a District car assigned to him since 1945. The new order was issued, he said, because he recently moved. He said he occasionally drove to the District at night to represent the Commissioners at large fires.

Officials at the District garage said Stofberg has had a car assigned to him for several years. Several other city officials are also authorized to take official cars home at night, they said. The District provides fuel for the cars, they said.

Young yesterday said Stofberg is on call for an assignment at any time, and that he is permitted to keep the car at his home in the event he is needed at night.

Bar Group to Sponsor Small Business Parley

"Organizational Problems of Small Businesses" will be the topic of an all-day institute, sponsored by the District Bar Association, at the Hotel Mayflower today, starting at 9 a. m.

Nebel Suspended, But Raid Netting Town Official Stands

Bladensburg Policeman Henry J. Nebel, who led a gaming raid which resulted in the arrest of a town councilman on Thursday, was formally suspended from the police force yesterday.

A notice of suspension was served on Nebel at 10:30 a. m. by Mayor Andrew Gasch and Councilman Leonard Simpson. The council voted Wednesday night to suspend Nebel pending investigation of "certain complaints" in the hands of the town police committee, headed by Simpson. A hearing on the complaints will be held March 30.

Because Nebel had not been advised of the council's action, his suspension was not in effect when he led the raid.

Councilman Josias M. Cobb was charged with permitting a lottery on his premises after the raid, which took place in a house owned by the councilman at 4114 46th ave. It is next door to his own home. He was released in $100 bond for hearing March 30.

Arrested in the raid were Ollie Holland, 50, who rents the house from Cobb, charged with operating a lottery, and Clyde Wilkinson, 29, 4412 46th ave., Bladensburg, charged with possession of numbers slips.

Nebel, chief of the town force until the rank was abolished by the council only a week ago, declined comment on the suspension, but admitted the notice cited four complaints against him. He said he would not divulge the nature of the charges "as long as the councilmen haven't seen fit to talk about them."

Meanwhile, Cobb disclosed yesterday it was he who moved for Nebel's suspension at an executive meeting of the council Thursday night. "The police committee recommended it and somebody had to make the motion, so I did," he said.

Spring Dusts Off the Benches . . .

Federation Backs 20-Cent Hike in Present $3.45 Levy

The Arlington County Civic Federation yesterday indorsed a proposed 20-cent increase in the present $3.45 tax rate, by a close vote of 22 to 20.

By its vote, taken near the 1:30 a. m. close of a Thursday night session, the federation rejected the recommendation of its revenue and expenditures committee, that it favor retention of the present total tax rate.

Committee Chairman Malcolm D. Miller told the group that revenues from local tax sources have been underestimated in the current school and general county budgets, now under advisement by the county board.

The school budget totals $3,705,190, while the recommended general county budget is $5,552,721.

Miller said the county will actually have enough money to support the proposed school and general county budgets without raising taxes because (1) Total assessed county valuation to which the tax is applied will probably be 155 million dollars, instead of the $148,665,594 estimated in the budget. (2) The percentage of tax collection will be 97 percent, instead of 95 percent, as estimated.

The federation agreed with Miller but voted to ask use of the predicted surplus funds for construction of "urgently needed" sidewalks and highways, additional recreation sites and library facilities, and more recreation department personnel, to allow increased use of school buildings after hours.

Fire Department Needs 150 More Recruits by July 1

The Civil Service Commission yesterday served notice that the District Fire Department needs about 150 recruits to begin duty July 1.

Additional manpower is needed because of legislation which places firemen here on a five-day instead of a six-day work week.

Applicants must be between the ages of 21 and 33. The CSC said only those men whose applications are received by April 11 will be considered for the new July 1 vacancies.

Day Matches Season; Bit Colder Today

Right from the Gulf of Mexico, a spring day reached Washington yesterday on the second or third day of Spring. And while we shall continue to have nice weather over the weekend, in the opinion of the Weather Bureau, it won't be quiet as warm as yesterday.

The temperature reached a high of 65 at 3:25 p. m., which was exactly the high on March 24 one year ago. It's not a record for that date, however. That was a torrid 85 back in 1907.

Just to make it completely springlike, showers fell late in the afternoon and evening. They'll be the last until Monday. Forecast for today is partly cloudy, windy, and cooler, with high about 55 to 58.

Man Fined $25 for False Job Statements

James E. Glynn, 59, former foreign service officer in the Economic Cooperation Administration, yesterday was fined $25 in District Court on charges he falsified statements in various applications for Federal jobs.

Glynn was indicted on eight counts of making false statements. He pleaded nolo contendere to the charges February 21.

Maximum sentence for the offense is a $10,000 fine or 10 years in jail or both.

Glynn, whose address was given as the General Scott Apartments, was accused in the indictment of falsely stating in his application that he had been administrative assistant to the president of the New York Central Railroad and had once supervised an engineering study group for General Motors. He had also stated falsely that he had attened the Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J., and Columbia University, the indictment charged.

As a result of his impressive application, he was appointed an ECA foreign service officer and stationed in Athens, Greece in November, 1948. The Government said his annual salary was $12,000, and that he collected $3600 of it before his employment was ended in March, 1949.

Undertaker Fined For Not Paying Tax on Coffins

A District undertaker yesterday paid a $25 fine in Municipal Court for failing to file the proper returns under the District sales tax law.

He is Walter Smith, who has a funeral home at 1125 19th st. nw. He pleaded guilty to six counts of failing to file the returns from last August through January and one count of failing to file an application for a certificate of registration.

Smith told Judge Frank H. Myers, that he was unaware that he had to pay a sales tax on the caskets he sold and therefore he had failed to file the returns. Judge Myers sentenced him to $25 or 30 days on each of the counts, then ordered they run concurrently, after learning that Smith has now paid the tax.

Spencer Sworn As Member of District PUC

Spencer was sworn in by District Court Judge Richmond B. Keech, a former commission member, before a crowd of 150 District and utility officials in the District Building board room.

A former member of the District Board of Real Estate Assessors and before that a PUC staff member, Spencer replaces James W. Lauderdale who resigned to return to private law practice.

Man Jailed In Boat Attack On Woman

10-30-Year Term Imposed; Repairman Sentenced in Slaying

Joseph B. Vines, 40, of 435 N st. nw., yesterday was sentenced to serve 10 to 30 years for housebreaking and assault with intent to commit rape.

The victim of the attack was Mrs. Jeannie Williams, 35-year-old mother of three children, who identified Vines as the man who came aboard her boat, docked at 820 Maine ave. sw., January 26, ordered her to disrobe and then struck her with a piece of pipe. She grabbed the pipe, struck Vines and he fled, she reported to police.

Vines was arrested two days after the offense by Park Police. He pleaded guilty to the charges and to a third charge of assault with a dangerous weapon in District Court March 6.

Sentences Concurrent

The sentence was imposed yesterday by Judge Alexander Holtzoff, who also handed down a sentence of 3 to 10 years on the third charge but ordered that it run concurrent with the other two charges.

Also sentenced yesterday in District Court were:

George R. Burn, 32, an oil burner repairman, formerly of 59 I st. nw., who received 3 to 15 years in jail for the fatal shooting of Harry M. Mauz, 47, of the I st. address, last July. Burn was indicted for first degree murder but was found guilty of a lesser charge of manslaughter by a District Court jury February 28. The sentence was imposed by Judge Holtzoff.

A. Z. Washington, 30, of 1104 Sumner rd. se., sentenced by Judge Holtzoff to serve 3 to 10 years in jail, after pleading guilty March 8 to taking indecent liberties with his 10-year-old daughter. He originally had been indicted on a charge of incest.

Deadly Weapon Conviction

Dallas O. Williams, 34, of 62½ Myrtle st. nw., sentenced by Judge T. Alan Goldsborough to serve 2 to 7 years on each of two counts of assault with a dangerous weapon and 1 year on a charge of carrying a deadly weapon—all three sentences to run concurrently.

Williams was found guilty by a District Court jury February 20 of assaulting Harold Mable, 34, of 428 Newton pl. nw., and Sam Algood, of 65 L st. nw., with a loaded pistol last September.

Arthur L. Clark, 53-year-old porter, sentenced to serve 10 to 30 days by Judge Holtzoff for operating a lottery and possession of numbers slips. He was convicted by a District Court jury March 2, after police testified he had promoted a numbers lottery in and around the Mayflower Hotel lobby between November 29 and December 6, 1949.

Peter Demurigan, of 4718 14th st. nw., a suspended sentence of 30 days and placed on two years probation by Judge Holtzoff after Demurigan pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of numbers slips.

Prince Georges County Series Starts Sunday

Prince Georges County's government, wheezing along on a century old pattern, may get quite a going over, starting soon.

If the Sothoron Act permitting streamlining of government functions goes into effect, several changes can be legally made in the way the commissioners govern the country.

What these changes are, and how they might be applied, will be discussed in a series of three articles by reporter Dorothea Andrews in The Washington Post. The first will appear Sunday.

Myers Jury Told of Plan For Campbell Abortion

Husband of Aunt Warned Against Arrangements, Trial Jury Hears

By Benjamin Bradlee
Post Reporter

William B. Earnshaw, 29, yesterday testified he told his wife "not to fool with abortions" but did not protest when he learned she had made arrangements for the abortion in which her 20-year-old niece was killed.

Earnshaw testified his wife was given the name of Ralph W. Myers by a woman who said she had been successfully aborted by Myers in 1948.

Myers, a 44-year-old window shade salesman, is on trial for performing the abortion in which Mrs. Nina Jean Campbell, young mother of two, was killed on the night of January 4.

Smelled Liquor, Witness Says

Mrs. Mabel Earnshaw, 29, testified earlier in the trial she arranged for an abortion for her niece because she "felt sorry" for her.

Another Government witness yesterday testified he smelled liquor on Myers' breath just before the Government claims the abortion was performed.

William Warren Waldron jr., 29, of 1945 Calvert st. nw., said Myers' speech was "not completely clear" at 8:30 p. m., January 4, when he and his financee saw Myers in the apartment of Miss Ruth Childs at 1321 Fairmont st. nw. Mrs. Campbell's body was found in the apartment the next day.

Waldron testified he understood Myers was "the boy friend" of Miss Childs, a Children's Hospital nurse, since suspended. Myers is married and has children, according to Government prosecutors.

Laughlin Cross-Examiner

The third day of the trial moved slowly, with the two witnesses under direct examination by assistant prosecutor William P. Arnold less than an hour, and under cross-examination by defense attorney James J. Laughlin more than two hours.

Laughlin asked Earnshaw if he had told his wife "vehemently" not to fool with abortions.

"No, in ordinary tones," he replied. "When she told me she was trying to have arrangements made for an abortion, I still didn't agree, but I didn't protest."

"You know an abortion is wrong? You know it's wrong to kill a baby," Laughlin asked.

"Very certainly," Earnshaw answered.

Three Separate Visits

According to earlier testimony, three separate visits were made by members of Mrs. Campbell's family to the Fairmont st., apartment, the first by Mrs. Earnshaw and Mrs. Campbell for the abortion, at 9 p. m.; the second by Mrs. Earnshaw, Earnshaw, Mrs. Campbell's husband, Carlton, and their baby daughter at 11:30 p. m., and the third by the Earnshaws, Carlton Campbell and his brother William, after midnight.

Laughlin pressed Earnshaw to find out "why you never called the police."

"On the second trip Carlton went up to the apartment," Earnshaw answered, "and the man said his name was 'Bigelow' and that there was no one else there. So I concluded that Nina had been revived and gone off in a taxi."

Saw Taxi Pull Away

Earnshaw said he had seen a taxi with two persons in it pulling out of Fairmont st., when he arrived.

"Why didn't you call the police later?" Laughlin asked.

"We thought that possibly nothing was wrong. We still didn't know she was in that room," he answered.

"When you were told she was dead, why didn't you call police then? Were you afraid your wife was mixed up in something?"

"I was worried."

"Were you afraid she might be involved?"

"Involved, yes."

The trial continues Monday.

Landlord, Shot By Police, Held On Assault Count

Arthur J. Smith, owner of an apartment house at 1700 15th st. nw., was shot in the arm last night when, it was alleged, he threatened a plainclothesman with a shotgun.

Following a dispute about rent, Smith was reported to have terrorized basement apartment occupants with the shotgun. When the tenant called police, Smith went upstairs to his own apartment.

Detective Elden E. Ernst of the Second Precinct ordered Smith to open his door. Ernst said that as Smith did so he raised his shotgun.

Ernst reported he told him twice to drop the weapon, then fired, hitting him above the right elbow. Smith was charged with assault with a deadly weapon. He was treated at Gallinger Hospital.

Radio Club to Meet

A meeting of the Washington Radio Club tonight at 8 p. m., at 3330 14th st. nw., will feature a symposium on new developments in amateur radio equipment and techniques.

HENRY S. WOOD. In memory of HENRY S. WOOD, who died one year ago today.
We'll not forget thee, we who stay,
To work a little longer here.
Thy name, thy faith, thy love, shall lie
On memories' tablet, bright and clear;
And when, o'erwearied by the toil
Of life, our heavy limbs shall be,
Will come and one by one lie down
Upon dear Mother Earth with thee.
And there will slumber by thy side,
There reunited meet the sod.
We'll wait, nor doubt in His good time
To feel the raising hand of God;
To be translated from the earth
This land of sorrow and complaint
To the all-perfect lodge above,
Whose Master is the King of Faith.

John Haley Burial Rites Slated Today

Funeral services for John C. Haley, 82, retired pharmacist, will be at 2 p. m. today at the Hines funeral home, 2901 14th st. nw. Burial will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Haley, who lived at 3214 13th st. nw., died Thursday at Homeopathic Hospital after a brief illness. He had been a druggist here for nearly 50 years.

Born in Canada, Mr. Haley took his pharmaceutical training in Chicago. He came here and opened his first drugstore in 1899 at 11th and East Capitol sts.

Later Mr. Haley owned drugstores at the Portland Building, 1129 Vermont ave. nw., and the Medical Science Building, 1029 Vermont ave. nw.

Before retiring two years ago he was associated as a pharmacist with the Peoples Drug Stores.

Mr. Haley was a member of the Acacia Masonic Lodge, a lifetime member of the Mount Vernon Chapter of the Royal Arch Masons and a member of the Veterans Druggists Association.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Genevieve Ryder Haley; two brothers, Manley and Adolph Haley, and a sister, Mrs. Richard Gorham, all of Illinois.

Falls Church Acquires Church House Option

The Falls Church City Council has acquired an option to purchase the six-room Cooke House, at 106 Little Falls st. for a new library building, City Attorney LaRue Van Meter said yesterday.

The option, okayed by the council in conference last Saturday, expires April 1. If it is taken up, it will provide larger quarters for the city's 8000 volume library, now crammed into two rooms of the Murphy building at 150 E. Broad st., Falls Church.

G. A. Moloney Dies; Shipping Broker Here

George A. Moloney, 45, shipping broker, died yesterday at Georgetown University Hospital after a long illness. His home was at 2500 Q st. nw.

For the past three years, Mr. Moloney has been Washington manager of Daniel F. Young, Inc., 1406 G st. nw., shipping brokers. From 1922 to 1942, he was connected with the United States Steel Co. and the United States Steel Export Corp. in various capacities.

Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Mr. Moloney was a graduate of City College of New York. He came to Washington eight years ago, and in that time had been assistant export manager of the Willys-Overland Export Corp. and chief of the Import Permit Branch of the War Production Board. In 1945, he aided the State Department in making arrangements for the San Francisco conference, acting as a special assistant to Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, jr.

He was a past officer of the Newman Club Federation and was a member of the Rock Creek Golf Club.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Pagan of Brooklyn, N. Y.; and two brothers, William J., of 2500 Q st. nw., and Joseph F., of Mexico City.

Funeral services and burial will take place in Brooklyn Tuesday morning.

Ladies to 'Invade' Boat Race Dinner

By Elizabeth Maguire

WHETHER to seat the ladies with the gentlemen or put them at separate tables is a question now before the 1950 committee of the Oxford-Cambridge Boat Race Dinner. The dinner is to be held on Friday, March 31, at the Raleigh Hotel, and for the first time graduates of the fair sex have been invited to attend.

It's just since before World War II that Oxford has given a university degree to women, and it is only very recently that Cambridge has bestowed women with the same degree. In light of this development, it seems reasonable to committee members to include ladies now at the annual dinner.

Sir Oliver Shewell Franks, the British Ambassador, and Raymond P. Brandt, chief of the Washington Bureau of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, will be the speakers. John Duncan Miller, Washington correspondent of the London Times, will be toastmaster.

Invitations have been issued to more than 400 former Oxford and Cambrdge students, representing fifteen nationalities, living in the Washington area. The committee points out that this is necessarily incomplete. Any additional names and addresses should be sent to Malcolm Henderson, 2900 29th st. nw.

Mrs. Barkley's Daughter Honored at Dance

MISS MIMI CLARK gave a dance last evening at the Chevy Chase Club for her school mate, Miss Jane Hadley. The young hostess was in pale blue tulle, and her guest of honor wore white taffeta flowered print. Both are students at Holton Arms, and their guests included many of their classmates and other sub-debutantes of Washington.

Miss Clark's father, Associate Justice Thomas Campbell Clark helped the two girls to receive their guests. Mrs. Clark dropped by for a short while, as she is recuperating from a cold. Mrs. Alben Barkley, mother of Miss Hadley, looked in on the party dressed in black lace and accompanied by the Vice President.

Spring flowers decorated the ballroom, and Barnee's orchestra furnished the dance music. Guests numbered about 100.

Mrs. Jess Bryon Bennett will give a luncheon on Thursday, for Hugo Gouthier, Brazilian Counselor, who is returning soon to Rio de Janeiro.

Minister Honored At Pakistan Embassy

THE newly appointed Minister of Economic Affairs at the Embassy of Pakistan, Amjad Ali, was entertained yesterday afternoon at a cocktail party given by the Ambassador and Mme. Ispahani. Nearly 150 members of diplomatic and official society attended.

Doors of the dining room opened wide onto the terrace and garden, where yellow flowers are beginning to bloom. Pink and lavendar tulips, mixed with jonquils decorated the embassy rooms.

Chiefs of mission of Middle East and Commonwealth countries were in the gathering. Also attending were financial advisers, and representatives from the World Bank, the Export-Import Bank and International Monetary Fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kinney entertained yesterday in honor of Comdr. and Mrs. Paul E. Brubeck of Palm Beach, St. Augustine, Fla., and Virginia Beach, Va. The party was at the Dupont-Plaza. Among the guests were Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Louis Renfrow, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Benny Griffin, Mrs. Louise Gallagher, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bartelt and many others.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rolin Jaequemyns announce the birth of a son, Philippe, on Tuesday, March 21. Mr. Jaequemyns is assistant to Camille Gutt, managing director of the Fund.

Nan Garcia Off For Tour of Europe

WITH only 48 hours notice Nan Garcia was packed and on her way to Europe. She left by plane on Wednesday to be gone about two months.

Miss Garcia is to make preliminary arrangements for Horace Heidt, radio star, to tour a group of Air Force camps throughout Europe and to complete plans for two large benefit concerts—one in Paris, the other in London, to be given by Mr. Heidt and his band.

Thor Thors, Minister of Iceland, gave a stag luncheon yesterday at La Salle du Bois. A dinner at La Salle was given yesterday by T. H. Goodyear.

Miss Balfour Presents Recital

HEBRIDEAN songs and songs from the Border Country were sung last evening by Miss Nemone Balfour, noted Scottish singer. The recital, which was held in the ballroom of the British Embassy, was attended by Lady Franks, wife of the British Ambassador, and some 250 members of Washington society.

At the recital last evening Miss Balfour accompanied herself on the lute and clarsach, or Celtic harp. Her concert was sponsored by members of the Scottish-American branch of the Highlands and Islands War Memorial and Thanksgiving Fund of Scotland. The songstress is a guest this weekend of Col. and Mrs. L. Corrin Strong.

A dinner was given last evening by the Ambassador of Panama and Senora de Herbruger for Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Willard F. Barber. There were 12 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake Clark entertained last evening at a dinner which included the Ambassador of Greece and Mme. Dendramis as ranking guests.

Colombian Official Will Be Honored at Embassy

A reception will be held today for the Colombian Minister of the Treasury, Dr. Hernan Jaramillo Ocampo, by the Colombian Ambassador and Senora de Zuleta Angel. The reception will be at the embassy at 6 o'clock.

GOP Women Okay Move to Study By-Laws

Phoenix, Ariz., March 24 (AP).—Cleveland was today chosen as site of the biennial convention of the National Federation of Women's Republican Clubs.

The session will be held August 29-31 this year.

At the final session of the federation's advisory board here, the group accepted a recommendation of its president, Mrs. Joseph R. Farrington of Washington, D. C., and Honolulu, and authorized reexamination of the federation's constitution and by-laws.

Consistency Urged

Mrs. Farrington asked this be done so the federation can function as a stabilizing and consistent force and not subject to fluctuating changes and conflicting views of important elements in the party."

Named to the nominating committee which will bring out a slate of officers at the biennial convention were all State federation presidents and a group including Mrs. William S. Culbertson, Washington.

Miss Fairall To Get Award From France

Miss Elizabeth Fairall, vice president of Julius Garfinckel & Co., of Washington, and the A. E. De Pinna Co., of New York, has been made a Chevalier in the French National Order of the Legion of Honor. The formal presentation of the award will be made later this month at the French Embassy.

In presenting this award, the French government honors Miss Fairall for her efforts in presenting French fashions in the Nation's Capital during the past 40 years.

Vice president of Garfinckel's since 1939, Miss Fairall first became associated with the famous specialty shop when it opened in 1906. Since 1911 she has made semiannual trips to Paris and other European capitals, bringing back to Washington representative collections of fashions and accessories. She is also the donor of the Julius Garfinckel Award for outstanding accessory designs, created by French stylists for export to America.

Arts Festival For Maryland AAUW Today

The Arts Festival, sponsored annually by the Maryland State Division of the American Association of University Women, will be held today at the Brook Farms Tea House.

Members of the Arts Groups throughout the State will meet for luncheon and to exhibit their work in the arts and crafts. Mrs. Walter Wells, director of the Kensington Sketch Class, will be the guest speaker.

An art contest for girls between 13 and 18 inclusive is being sponsored by the Maryland State Division of A.A.U.W. Branches throughout the State will select painting and sketching in their communities. These will be sent for final judging to the A.A.U.W. State convention which wil be held in Salisbury on April 21 and 22. Winners will be given ribbons.

If any competitors from the Bethesda-Chevy Chase area receive ribbons, the Creative Arts group of the branch in that community is planning an additional award to the winner. Entries must be in by April 15. Rules for entering the contest may be secured from Mrs. Allen Austin, 5008 Battery lane, Bethesda.

Indiana's Cherry Blossom Entry To Be Feted at Cabaret Supper

By Nicha Soure

THE Cherry Blossom Festival may be uppermost in the minds of Washingtonians this week but it's been a topic of conversation for a long time back home in Indiana.

The Hoosier State has taken Washington's annual Festival to heart. For the past two years, the Indiana State Society has requested that the princess to represent Indiana be a girl from back home. With the aid of the Indianapolis Star and News, a state-wide popularity contest is sponsored in the State colleges to select a girl most representative of the State.

This year's selection is Miss Barbara Jean Vaughan of Evansville, a sophomore at Evansville College, chosen from candidates from 18 colleges.

The 19-year-old, brown-haired, brown-eyed Hoosier princess will arrive in Washington on Thursday at the National Airport with a military delegation on hand to greet her.

On April 1 the Indiana State Society will hold a cabaret supper party in honor of Miss Vaughan in the main dining room and cocktail lounge of the Dupont Plaza Hotel.

The party will be from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m. with supper served at midnight. An elaborate all-Hoosier floor show will be presented at intervals during the evening featuring Leo G. Morrell as master of ceremonies. Music for dancing will be by Paul Kain, another Hoosier, and his orchestra.

STATE societies have dotted Washington's social calendar with receptions, dinners and dances in honor of their own Cherry Blossom Princesses. But on the eve of Washington's famed Cherry Blossom Festival, the Conference of State Society Officers will sponsor the first official gathering of all the princesses.

The gala reception will be held Thursday in the Senate Caucus Room of the Senate Office Building from 8:30 to 11 p. m. Roy Haines, first vice chairman of the Conference, will preside as chairman of the reception.

MISS ELIZABETH MITCHell, West Virginia's Cherry Blossom Princess, will be introduced to the Mountaineer State Society at a reception tonight in the New ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel.

The reception for members of the society, will be at 8:30 p. m., according to Charles M. Walker, president. Members of the West Virginia Congressional delegation will attend the reception.

Miss Mitchell, the daughter of State Senator William Mitchell of Welch, is a senior at Concord College at Athens, W. Va.

THE Maryland State Society of Washington will hold an informal reception in honor of Miss Patricia O'Conor, the Maryland Cherry Blossom Princess. Miss O'Conor is the daughter of Sen. and Mrs. Herbert R. O'Conor.

The reception will be held at the Engineers Club of Washington, National Theater Building, 1325 E st. nw., on Tuesday from 8 to 10 p. m.

For reservations call Mrs. Rodman Coad at the Engineers Club (Executive 5716) or Mrs. William R. Clay (Johnson 3-5923 during the evenings.)

ANOTHER Society which will honor its Cherry Blossom Princess at a reception is the Delaware State Society.

On Wednesday, Miss Diana Kipps of Wilmington, Del., will be guest of honor at an informal reception and dinner at the Dodge Hotel, 6:30 p. m.

Henry Claus, president of the News Journal Company, who is cooperating with the Delaware State Society in sponsoring the Cherry Blossom Princess, will be among the guests at the reception and dinner.

For information about reservations call Mrs. Charles Henderson, social secretary, at Union 3085.

ALTHOUGH the blossoms may be hesitating down at the Tidal Basin, there will be a colorful array of them at the Michigan State Society's annual Cherry Blossom Ball in the Wardman Park's Burgundy Room on Tuesday.

The Wolverine State's guest of honor for the party will be Miss Myrna Rees, a University of Michigan sophomore, who will be crowned Michigan Cherry Blossom Princess by Senator Homer Ferguson. Miss Rees is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Rees formerly of Ironwood, Mich., now residing in the District.

The coronation will be preceded by a lively blossom pageant staged by the Helen Moore Dancers of the District Heights Dancing School.

Jack Morton's orchestra will furnish music for dancing scheduled to start at 9:30 p. m. All Michigan Congressional offices can supply tickets and further information about the dance.

The Blossom Ball also will serve as a "reunion" for many Michiganders, and committees have been set up to welcome folks from all parts of the State. Among the greeters will be Louis Hurd, who will be on the lookout for all University of Michigan Alumni, while Fred Belin will be the scout for former Michigan State College folks.

IT WILL be the first spring dance of the season for the Illinois State Society when it meets tonight in the west ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel.

"Home Folks Night" will be the theme of the dance for the Illinoisans. Miss Barbara Freeman, Illinois' choice for Cherry Blossom Princess, will be introduced to the society members. Dancing will be to the music of Dave McWilliams' orchestra.

THE Chattanooga Shoe Shine Boy will "shine" tonight at the Tennessee State Society amateur hour and square dance session at the National Press Club, 8 o'clock.

"Bo" McCann, 15-year-old boy chosen in a contest in Chattanooga, will be one of the entertainers at the Tennessee gala amateur contest. Old-fashioned fiddling and comedy skits, including a real old hoe-down, will be included in the show. Mike Hunnicutt will act as master of ceremonies.

THE Georgia State Society has slated its most colorful party of the season for April 1.

Highlight of the party will be the coronation of Miss Lulu Camp as Georgia's Cherry Blossom Princess by Representative James C. Davis. The ceremony will take place in the west ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel at 9:30 p. m.

Canasta and bridge tables are planned for the Peach Staters who would rather play cards than dance. Group singing will precede the dance which begins at 10 p. m. Further information about the dance may be obtained from Mrs. J. W. Thurston at Randolph 6833.

THE Nevada State Society will hold a "round-up" tonight in the Burgundy room of the Wardman Park Hotel at 8:30 p. m.

Nevadans in informal and western costumes will dance to the tune of Tiny Meeker's Orchestra. A buffet supper will be served at 11 p. m.

Camp Fire Parley to Close

Delegates to the Region 2 conference of Camp Fire Girls council members, will be received by Mrs. Truman at Blair House at noon today, as the last official event on their three-day agenda.

Officers of Region 2, which includes the Middle-Eastern States and the District of Columbia, were elected yesterday afternoon at the Wardman Park Hotel.

New officers are Mrs. William Harvey Young, Washington, chairman; Mrs. Kenneth Digney, Fayetteville, N. Y., vice chairman; Mrs. B. F. Brunner, Olean, N. Y., second vice chairman, and Mrs. William F. Hedden, Hornell, N. Y., secretary.

Newly elected chairmen of committees are Mrs. Reynold A. Lee, Washington, finance committee; Mrs. Brunner, nominating committee, and Mrs. W. K. Tracey of Syracuse, N. Y., program committee.

Miss Burnham, J. E. McMahon Are Married

Miss Mary Burnham, assistant director of women's activities for WMAL and WMAL-TV, was married yesterday to James E. McMahon, information specialist with the Department of Agriculture.

The Rev. John F. McCarthy performed the ceremony in the Chapel of St. Jerome's Catholic Church in Hyattsville, Md.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melville C. Burnham of Baxter, Iowa. Mr. McMahon is the son of Frank E. McMahon of Culbertson, Mont., and the late Mrs. McMahon. Mr. and Mrs. James E. Reynolds of Hyattsville attended the couple. The bride wore a gown of cornflower blue tissue faille with black accessories and a brown orchid corsage.

Following the reception at Hotel 2400 the couple will leave on a wedding trip. They will reside in Washington. Mrs. McMahon was graduated from Iowa State College where she was a member of Theta Sigma Phi professional journalism fraternity. Also, she is a member of the Women's National Press Club, the American Home Economics Association and Home Economics in Business.

Mr. McMahon is a graduate of the University of Montana where his fraternities were Phi Sigma Kappa and Sigma Delta Chi.

Confessions of a Famous Father

Takes a Compass to GetAround U. S. These Days

By John Mason Brown

(Editor's Note: Mr. Brown turns his critical eye away from the world with its woes to observe with reportorial zeal his two small sons and their playmates. This is the last of six chapters condensed from John Mason Brown's latest book, "Morning Faces," published by Whittlesey House.)

A TRIP TO THE WILD AND WOOLLY WEST

THE Twentieth Century had been rushing up the Hudson Valley for many miles, breathless and luxurious, before I noticed the compass my older boy held open in his hand.

His grandfather, who had carried it as a doughboy in France during World War I, had given it to him two years before at Christmas time. No one had been allowed to touch it, much less to remove it from my son's museum.

Yet here it was, off the shelf, out in the open, away from the protection of four walls, and very much in use.

Accordingly, as Poughkeepsie blurred past, I could not resist asking, "Why the compass?"

"Just in case," my son said shyly, though not without hope, "oh, just in case the engineer loses his way."

The compass was one of many hints as to how different this trip West was to be from the countless trips I have made alone during the past 20 years.

All of us who are adults have discovered our own Americas, and then lost them by taking them for granted and misplacing that sense of wonder which is the juice of living.

To rediscover America, to have the tedium of travel routed by excitement or the routine lifted into adventure, we have only to see the country through 11-year-old eyes. Yes, and to see it, as I was doing, through 11-year-old hopes, dreams, interests, and fears, too.

Trip Plotted Months Ahead

FOR weeks—more accurately, for months—before that hot afternoon on which we boarded the Century, we had talked about this trip. I was to be at Boulder, Colo., for a week of the Writers' Conference. This provided us with what was at once our reason and excuse.

As a rule, for budgetary reasons, I do not travel in a drawing room, much less on the Century. Yet obviously for this trip to Chicago, it had to be the Century. Yes, and a drawing room, too. So often we rob tomorrow's memories by today's economies.

This was no ordinary trip. It was an expedition; the kind of thing which could never quite be repeated; an experience for both of us; a memory-builder. The best was not good enough.

His eyes danced when he discovered in Grand Central we were to be in a car called Imperial Chariot. Plainly someone with a genius for truth as well as titles had named it. As a veteran of day coaches, he could not believe the chromiumed comfort he beheld.

He rushed to the light switches, trying them all again and again, until each fixture blinked lightning-bugwise. He was delighted (as who wouldn't be except the porter?) by the chimes which rang softly when he pushed the porter's bell. He could not understand how there could be so many clothes closets.

"Gee, Dad, we've got another room!" cried he with excitement which turned into giggles when he opened the door to survey that necessity which on the Century is grandly labeled "Annex."

Steak Perils Family Budget

ALTHOUGH steak on the Century may imperil the family savings, it is worth it. Steak that thick; steak of those redwood-tree dimensions. Steak mahogany-hued on the outside and peony-pink within. Steak with French fried potatoes, and pie a la mode to follow.

Set before a boy of 11 on a racing train, with glimpses of

Susanne Suba

"Dance, tenderfoot, dance!"

West Point or, better still, of Sing Sing served as relishes, it becomes a feast of feasts; a miracle calculated to open the eyes as wide as the mouth.

His crowning joy came when we at last returned to our drawing room and he watched the porter making it ready for the night. No transformation scene in any pantomime was ever richer in magic or greeted with greater rapture.

Loyalty is a fierce instinct. When we were heading for Colorado on the "City of Denver," an admirable train, he was too faithful to his first love, the "Century," to forsake it entirely.

He forgot trains, however, when history and geography overtook him, when his school books and his movies abandoned print and celluloid to become realities before his eyes.

He could not believe it when he saw Tom's and Huck's Mississippi, with steamers just like those in the Currier and Ives in my room. He was amazed, too, by the whole landscapes filled with tall and tasseled corn.

The climax came, of course, the next morning when the Rockies made their miraculous appearance from the plains. Seeing them emerge is not a thrill which comes once in a lifetime. It comes whenever they are seen.

In time he tired of my saying, "Look at the corn!" just as later he grew weary of hearing me exclaim, "Look at the mountains!"

Even so, he recognized both the meaning and the majesty of those expanses of corn, and surrendered to the mountainous West. To its scale, its feel, its friendly, open-hearted people.

Riding Up Canyon The Supreme Thrill

"TO dance to lutes, to dance to flutes"—is that supposed to be delicate and rare?

It's as nothing, at eleven, compared to riding up a canyon on a Western saddle, wearing your own cowboy hat; to the sight of your first herd of buffalo; to sleeping in a log cabin, knowing that coyotes and possibly bears and mountain lions are outside.

It's as nothing compared to having a snowball fight—in August—at the top of a high mountain; to going to your first rodeo in its native habitat and away from Madison Square Garden; or to encountering an Indian, regardless of how old, friendly, or unfeathered, in broad daylight right on the street.

There was the Western hat which could scarcely be pried off his head even when we had returned to Chicago and were once more on the "Century."

There was the file of timetables. There was the new and formidable cap pistol, with roll after roll of caps, which he had bought with money an aunt had given him.

There were all the porters' checks which en route had been attached to his luggage.

There were the gifts for the family, bought inevitably at Marshall Field's. These included, as a memento of the trip, a bowie knife which now dangled from his belt along with his compass.

There was even a small but radiant nugget of gold given him by a kind friend in Colorado.

Finally, there were memories. My hope is, of course, that these will prove the heaviest luggage of all. I know they will for me.

The home-coming showed the broadening effects of travel. He had planned it carefully and with delight. When he got off the train and greeted his mother, he was wearing his cowboy hat, his cap pistol was pointed skyward and blazing away with machine-gun rapidity.

"Yippee, Ma.," cried he to her consternation, "how's your cattle this year?"

Men Can't Talk Their Way Out

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP).—This is a woman's world, and for a good reason. Women are better adapted to live in it.

Let us take a simple case. George Washington's father finds one of his favorite fruit trees freshly axed. Very wroth he looks up his son and asks:

"Did you cut down my cherry tree?"

Taxed directly in this way, the young father-to-be of his country says:

"Yes, I did it with my little hatchet."

But suppose Georgie had wanted to brazen it out. And said, "No, sir!" His face would have flushed red, his eyes have turned shifty—and he'd instantly have given himself away. And Pappy Washington would have to put the cane to his pantaloons.

Suppose, however, the same incident had happened to Martha Washington when she was a girl.

"Did you chop down my cherry tree?" demands her father.

"My, did someone chop down your nice tree, daddykins?" says she. "What'll happen around here next?"

"What I want to know is—did you cut it down with your little red hatchet?" asks father crossly.

"Oh, daddykins, you know I painted my little hatchet green last week."

"Well, never mind that. Did——"

"Why daddykins!" exclaims Martha. "Look, there's a button off your new waistcoat."

"Is there?"

"Yes. Now you come into the mansion right this minute, and I'll sew another on. I don't know what would happen, daddykins, if I weren't here to take care of you."

And helpless daddykins would be led by Martha from the scene of the crime and forget all about it.

These two incidents show a basic difference between the adjustment of men and women to any situation.

You will note that young Georgie not only confessed the deed—he named the weapon.

Little Martha, on the other hand, not only refused to give a yes-or-no answer. She changed the subject, and got her male questioner to think she was doing him a favor in the bargain.

Originally, when men were a strutting, dominant sex, the woman developed this talent as a means of escaping responsibility when charged by her boy friend with doing something he didn't like. By wheedling, placating and cajoling, by pretending to be a flighty, thoughtless thing, woman managed to make the sexes equal.

Today men and women are pretty equal under the law. But the gals have retained their great social weapon of the past—this fluid ability to evade being pinned down or blamed. A man, however, is still caught in the old jungle code of straightforward answers.

You can't trap a woman in this way. She refuses to commit herself except to get what she knows she wants. She is a kind of verbal broken field runner.

In dealing with men she has learned that if she talks to them long enough in her artfully vague way, they will succumb to a hopeless feeling, and crumple to her will.

Yes, it's a woman's world. It's a civilized world that woman talked men into—and men can't talk their way out of, because most of the time they no longer even know what anybody is talking about — particularly women.

MEN READ CAREFULLY
Saturday afternoon 1:30 p. m. sharp, I want to talk to 20 men who are really ambitious in securing a position that will give them steady employment the year 'round. In other words, there are no laying-off periods, and consistent income is the income that really counts. It doesn't matter what your past employment has been, all we ask is that you be willing to study and learn as we teach you our work. It will also be necessary that you be willing to get along on $75 to $85 per week for the first 4 or 6 weeks while learning our work. A car is essential. You must also be able to give the names of 3 people who will vouch for your honesty and integrity. We prefer men who are married or men who have some measure of responsibility. I would also like to talk to a few men who are mechanically inclined and who know a good thing when they see it. Therefore if you are honest and of good character, willing worker, neat in appearance, come and talk with me.

Pope Pius XII—Priest and Statesman

Elevation of Pacelli as Papal Secretary of State Came in 1930

Kees Van Hoek, a native of The Hague and now an Irish citizen, has been a correspondent in London, Geneva and the United States. His first biography of Pius XII appeared in 1939. After much research and a private audience with the Pope last fall, Van Hoek has written in "Pope Pius XII, Priest and Statesman," a full and vivid description of the man and his career, from a delicate boy in Rome to supreme ruler of the Roman Catholic world. The biography is presented by The Washington Post during the present Holy Year in 24 daily installments.

By Kees Van Hoek

Foreign Affairs Writer of the Irish Times

VII—SECRETARY OF STATE

THE RECALL of Nuncio Pacelli to Rome, his nomination as member of that small body of the Pope's intimate advisers, the Cardinals of the Roman Curia, heralded great changes in the high ranks of the Vatican.

The Secretary of State, Cardinal Gasparri, was approaching his eighties in a zenith of administrative success and in unbounded health. He had been the main mover in the conciliation between Italy and the Holy See, he had seen his monumental work for the codification of Canon Law crowned by the issuing of the new Codex. He desired to retire while his health still allowed him a quiet aftermath of a well spent life. Already decorated with the Collar of the Annunziata Order, which made him a cousin of the King, he was presented by the Pope with a small palazzo in the shadow of the Capitol, the State promptly paying him the honor of posting a guard of honor in front of it.

The choice of a successor presented no difficulty to the Pontiff, who had had his eye on Pacelli for a long time. He knew of his early training in the Vatican State Department under the incomparable Gasparri. In fact, when Prefect of the Vatican Library, Monsignor Achille Ratti had been consulted frequently by Monsignor Pacelli, then at work on the Codification of Canon Law.

Bolsheviks Near Warsaw

SHORTLY afterwards Monsignor Ratti himself had become Nuncio, at Warsaw, under circumstances of the most trying character. The Bolshevik Army stood before the gates of the Polish capital. In a conference at his house of the diplomatic corps, in which Herbert Hoover, later President of the United States, then American Relief Commissioner, participated, it was decided that the foreign dignitaries should leave Warsaw.

Only Nuncio Ratti refused; he stayed at his post, and after General Weygand's strategy had averted the danger, the Polish Parliament passed a vote of homage to the Papal Nuncio for his courageous action which had done so much to avert panic and to strengthen the confidence of the population. Small wonder that, when Nuncio Ratti became Pope, he remembered with especial satisfaction the parallel action of his then colleague, the Nuncio at Munich, who had stayed at his post right through the Red terror. That was the sort of fibre of which he himself was made.

Even closer was the pontiff's connection with another member of the Pacelli family, the Nuncio's brother. Francesco Pacelli, like his father, was a Vatican lawyer. The Pope had chosen him as his trusted go-between in the difficult negotiations with Mussolini to achieve the conciliation between Vatican and Quirinal Rome, between the church and the state.

On February 10, 1930, Cardinal Pacelli was nominated Papal Secretary of State, a high office he was destined to fill for nine years, unique preparation for the highest dignity in the world.

Pope Pius (left), as the Papal Nuncio at Munich, is followed by an aide after signing concordat

Stature Impressive

LET US look at Eugenio Pacelli as he was then. But for his much-grayed hair, he is the same man today. He is tall, majestically so, for his height is emphasized by stately ecclesiastical garb, the flowing cassock with the vivid touch of its crimson silk seams and long row of crimson buttons. Above the broad crimson sash hangs the dazzling pectoral cross on a heavy gold chain. A little crimson skull cap covers the tonsure in his thick and curly hair. One is impressed by his stature—truly royal when he wears the ermine cape and the trailing silk robes of ceremonial dress—but one is completely fascinated by his countenance. His face is a perfect oval, of olive complexion, with the lofty brow of the scholar, and deep-set, jet-black eyes behind gold-rimmed spectacles. Of great distinction, his suavity puts every visitor completely at ease, but even with the highest of them he preserves the aloofness of his high calling. He talks with great courtesy and consideration, but his gentle eyes probe beyond the core of things, though one is never aware of being rapidly sized up.

Entering the basilica of St. Peter amidst heralding trumpets for a great ceremony, robed in gorgeous vestments, he is every inch a prelate, but when saying mass he becomes transformed into a simple priest, and his face lights up with the moving devotion of one profoundly aware of his own unworthiness as the intermediary of the altar between God and men.

At Peace With Himself

ONCE, when his long shining car was held up by the fair in a mountain village on an Italian summer morning, he sat rigidly in the cushions, reading his breviary, and nothing of the pandemonium round him diverted his attention for a second. Seated on a silk-covered settee in front of the enormous window in the high, light and cool study of the Secretary of State in the Vatican Palace, looking out on the courtyard of St. Damasus he talks to his visitors with an earnestness and intensity which most of the highest-placed of this world keep only for their equals. One feels the probing of his earnest, deep eyes, one is again aware of the utter serenity—for it is far more than mere acquired discipline—of a man at peace with himself, and one senses the spirituality of this high dignitary who has always remained by vocation the curate of souls.

The few anecdotes that are known about him typify the man. There is his barber who used to come occasionally to the Vatican to cut his hair and who was amazed at the cardinal shaving himself without soap, with an electric razor. He would not believe it until the cardinal asked him to rub his cheek. There is the 5-year-old son of the Marquis d'Ormesson, who, when Nuncio Pacelli came to say goodby to the family, muttered an "Au revoir, mon vieux," which, so everyone hoped fervently, the Nuncio would not have heard. Years later the newly elected Pope, receiving the homage of the Marquis d'Ormesson, asked him, with a twinkle in his eye: "Tell me, does your little son still call visitors 'mon vieux'?"

My Friendships

My friendships are the homing ships . . .
That touch the evening shore . . . And they are all the flowers fair . . . That blossom at my door . . . They are the stars that twinkle when . . . The sun has slipped away . . . They are my windows and my roof . . . Against a rainy day . . . My friendships warm the winter snow
. . . And cool the summer breeze . . . And bring to life the pages of . . . My book of memories . . . They are the jewels in my box . . .
The hopes that fill my chest . . . The courage of my effort and . . . My comfort when I rest
. . . And I shall keep and cherish them . . .
As long as I may last . . . To live for some tomorrow and . . . To dream about the past.

Count the letters in your first name. Subtract four if the number is six or more. Add three if the number is less than six. Then you have the key number. Check each key number left to right. The letters under the checks form a message.

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Here's an Easy One for The Puzzle Fans

Mrs. Neva Fayl of 225 W. Water st., Winchester, Va., trots out a variation of "How Old Is Ann" but doesn't send along the answer. The problem is:

There's Dad and Ma, Brother and me;
The sum of our ages is 83.
Six times Dad's age is seven times Ma's,
And she is three times me.

The question is: How old is Dad?

I don't know what Mrs. Fayl's solution is, but you'll find mine at the end of today's column.

"THEY ALSO SERVE! . ."

"I'll be ready in a minute," came the voice from the bedroom. I unbuttoned my overcoat, turned on the radio, and reflected at some length on the duration of a woman's minute.

"That's quite a minute, dear," I said after a rather tedious interval. "I'd hate to hold my breath that long."

"Oh, fiddlesticks," came the prompt reply. "You know as well as I do that it's just a figure of speech—like the one the announcer used just now, when he introduced the Telephone 'Hour.' It runs from 9 to 9:30."

I took off my overcoat, settled back in my easy chair, closed my eyes, and murmured: "Yes, dear. Wake me when you're ready."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Beautiful all-black female cat, 1-year-old; very playful, accustomed to children." (Ludlow 4-6110.)

MISCELLANY

Two sharp-eyed District Liners take Cartoonist Coakley to task for a technical error in a recent drawing. Preston Angell of 6060 N. 21st st., Arlington, Va., and W. M. Devine of 234 F st. nw. complain about the telephone into which the bus boy spoke when he told the lady he had found her dime (diamond). It was a wall-type phone, with a cradle-type receiver and transmitter. That's the newest thing for public phones, you know—but Coak's mistake was in also putting a mouthpiece on the box on the wall. The bus boy was talking into two mouthpieces . . . H. M. Hickerson of 3102 24th st. ne. says Webster can have his "none are" construction, she'll still take a singular verb with "none" . . . F. Bond of 220 Wesmond dr., Alexandria, Va., tells me that the story that Hugh Guidi palmed off on me a couple of weeks ago dates back to the first World War . . . Bill Poller of 2301 Oglethorpe st., Hyattsville, Md., offers an interesting theory to explain the origin of the term "second hand." He says it's from a Latin root word meaning "to split, a part, or division." So all three hands on a watch could be called second hands, and I guess the richest of us own second-handed watches . . . Mrs. Freda B. Nydorf of 2502 14th st. ne. tells me that when her daughter Jane, aged 5, saw the singer on Milton Berle's TV program the other night, she remarked: "That lady is going to catch a terrible cold on her heart."

IT'S LIKE A RACE; (THE HUMAN RACE)

There are several places in Washington where traffic lights are not too well synchronized. As the motorist gets the green at one intersection, the red goes against him one short block further on.

You'd think that drivers would be alert enough to look a few hundred feet ahead, and regulate their speed accordingly.

But watch them sometime, and see how many of them shoot their cars up to 25 and even 30 miles per hour—only to slam on their brakes again a few seconds later.

They're for all the world like the markers on a parcheesi set, darting forward several spaces at a clip, and then standing stock still until the next cast of the dice.

And the surprising thing is that the start-and-stop fraternity has so many members who are taxi drivers. Hackers are supposed to be a little bit smarter than the average Dumb Dan who climbs behind the wheel.

STREET SCENE

Here's an unfinished story, overheard in front of the Capitol theater by Russell "Dutch" Williard of 809 Gail ave., Rockville, Md. All Dutch could hear before the couple passed out of his hearing was the girl saying to the man:

". . . I've given you plenty of chances to do away with me, but tonight you're going to get your last chance."

ONE OVER PAR

J. M. McGrath of 2600 S. 16th st., Arlington, Va., reports that he found this little ditty pasted on the window of a Mount Pleasant streetcar:

I used to date a girl named Kay;
Then Edith came in view,
And I found out that you can't have Your Kay and Edith too.

SOLUTION TO PUZZLE

Inasmuch as the relationship of Brother's age to the others is not established in the jingle, my guess is that several answers are possible.

Probably the best one is that Dad is 35, Mother is 30, "Me" is 10 and Brother is 8. That makes Mother "three times me;" and six times Dad's age equals seven times Mother's, with no messy fractions left over.

However, I might point out that Dad can also be 38½, Mother 33, "Me" 11 and Baby Brother 6 months old.

Another mathematical possibility is that Dad could be 31½, Mother 27, "Me" 9 and Brother 15½. But in that case, Mother would have married at a very tender age.

CONTEST FANS

Trying the $100,000 Word-Building Puzzle Contest?

You can be SURE instead of hopeful about your highest score! Manual "2 Systems For Solving Word-Building Puzzles," dealing entirely with this type of puzzle, describes fully two specific methods that:

1 Show you the 720 combinations for rearranging six words in six spaces Each permits a different score. Solve 720, discard 719! There are no more! About 24 hours working time—months in which to find it. No guess-work—you're SURE!

2 The system that makes playthings of larger puzzles—like last year's TIE-BREAKERS! Handles puzzles that would require months and years to find all the combinations. You completely bypass the 99% or more low-scoring combinations. If you have your highest words you get ONLY THE HIGH SCORES in as little as a day's time! It's TRUE! It's the back-breaker of the tie-breaker! It's easier and faster and surer than hit-and-miss! So new it's now being bought by 1949 contest winners. BOTH systems in ONE BOOK!

Rangoon, March 24 (AP).—The Burmese government today announced acceptance of a six-million-pound ($16,800,000) loan by the British Commonwealth countries of India, Pakistan, Ceylon and Australia.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Prince Chided About Children

By Drew Pearson

Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands was in New York's Stork Club the other night as the guest of famed toy manufacturer Lewis Marks.

Pearson

Prince Bernhard is a much-loved consort, but hasn't been too good at fulfilling his basic obligation to the Netherlands—supplying the Dutch people with a male heir to the throne.

Bernhard, who had never been in the Stork Club before, asked his host to point out some of the celebrities. So Marks called popular Columnist Leonard Lyons over to the prince's table and introduced him.

"What's so special about him?" whispered the prince of the Netherlands into Marks' ear.

"He," replied Marks, "has four sons."

Small Business

While President Truman talks big about being the friend of small business, the record doesn't entirely bear him out. Here are important spots in the record which make big business happy:

1. Democratic leaders are sitting on the Senate Small Business Committee. This committee was authorized one month ago, but no members have been named to get it going.

2. Big business gets an increasing number of orders from the national Defense Department. During the war, orders to big business were justified on the ground of speed and emergency. But since the war, the time-honored American system of competitive bidding has been largely side-stepped, with the brass hats ordering from their favorite firms.

3. The oil lobby received the secret blessing of President Truman for the Kerr natural gas bill. Insiders explain Truman's position as resulting from two factors: (a) Speaker Sam Rayburn's charm; and (b) heavy campaign contributions from the oil boys.

The President has not hesitated to kick big campaign contributors in the teeth in the past. However, in this case, the campaign money pressure operates through congressional friends, including Lyndon Johnson, the handsome Senator from Texas, and Bob Kerr himself. When asked about this, Bible-quoting Bob Blandly replies: "Why, President Truman and I would never get into a quarrel."

Note 1—Though the President privately OK'd the Kerr bill to Senators Kerr and Johnson, public pressure against the bill has been so hot that the Democratic National Committee has been urging Senators to vote against the bill in order to take the President off the spot. One Senator whom Chairman Bill Boyle had the most difficulty in persuading to vote for the consumer was Brien McMahon of Connecticut.

Note 2—Oil lobbyists have been working under cover to prevent forthright Senator Jim Murray of Montana from being named chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee. Murray was too conscientious in ferreting out the Navy's big Arabian oil scandal two years ago.

Facts vs. Headlines

Sometimes it takes a long time for the final facts to catch up with the headlines. Here are some final facts about George Racey Jordan, who made headlines with a wild story about the late Harry Hopkins slipping secrets to Russia, and who now expects to cash in on his sensational charges.

The former Army major is now writing a book, "Red Pipeline," which he hopes to sell to the spy-conscious public. He is counting on past headlines to make the book a best seller, expects to sell the first 100,000 copies to the Republican Party.

Significantly, Jordan was in a financial jam just before he exploded his spy story. He sold 5000 shares of Soya Bean Corp. stock that he was unable to deliver, was hauled before the New York attorney general and ordered to make good. He finally paid the money back in installments, made the last payment just before breaking his spy story.

What has been overlooked, meanwhile, is that the House Un-American Activities Committee has never been able to confirm a word of Jordan's charges against Harry Hopkins. This column also checked confidential military records, found that Jordan made only one complaint about Russian shipments to superior officers. Calling attention to the large shipments going to Russia, he asked how much authority he had to check them. However, he didn't say a word about Harry Hopkins, nor official secrets, though he mentioned some agricultural booklets on loading livestock into freight trains.

On the other hand, Jordan complained about customs officials who were discourteous to the Russians, specifically protested because Mrs. Molotov, wife of the then Soviet Foreign Minister, had been delayed.

Jordan also got only two recommendations for promotion—both from the same Russian officers with whom he worked, but whom he now accuses of abusing American hospitality and shipping uranium to Russia.

Note—Jordan has indicated that he would give a cut from his new book to the commentator who gave Jordan his first publicity break—though Time magazine had already refused to print the story for lack of evidence.
